Fabulous sylphs, gorgeous cones Sunflower.

Strange circular 'cloud' in some photos.

Some activity to report from Dublin on what was a turbulent weekend and not only the weather (sun, wind, rain, sylphs). Sunflower and I discussed the difficulty of getting people to continue making Plasterite, if they make an initial amount - we couldn't find a solution.

For me, guess I'll keep banging on, doing what I can to promote it, hoping for a couple of workshops soon, and in the meantime posting Plasterite gifts off to friends and acquaintances.

People love to get them when no cash involved, mention money and there's silence.

I'll attach photos in a mo when they get from A to B.

Comments :-)

Lots of cones involved.

A packet will be going to Belgium.

Another packet not long gone to Costa Rica, to a well-known psychic woman Julie Aubier who did a little blog on Plasterite, including showing the Eire video. It was bizarre to be getting messages and friend requests, and interest about Plasterite from Irish people who saw her blog.

Just before that I sent another package to a woman in British Columbia, Canada. Forget to take a photo of that.

No comment would be complete without a sylph picture.

Another couple of cones and hearts ready to go to an Irish friend. Hope she likes them.

Then a chunky Bernoulli and a large disk to replace a damaged one from my poor recent 'tower' that keeps leaning then toppling.

Re: THE IRISH TOPIC

thank you

going through our own private galactic kick ass shaman s blog and it s amazing

*never really read it , can only read it piece by piece as it is real dynamite on a healing level serious depth in that baby core of foundations
you can only take it in in small doses
one post at a time*

*actually was planning on doing a rant to take it all apart turn it all to dust
maybe rightfully so maybe but still
and this is the point of awareness
as the white wolf turns into the black wolf and wins the game but unlike the black wolf does not go for the kill even if he can easily
but this is where the shamanism comes in and says stop it is power
as even though the enemy is on the ground and helpless
the healer balances that is his strength
he balances power
he will not turn the other cheek and will remain vigilant*

*but he has already won the game
so there is no need to kill the king
the king is captured and under control*

*balancing energy , power, etc
maybe a sort of humbleness too but not in the Political correct indoctrinated sense it s different, more honest and higher than that, way out of reach for the PTB to reach or hijack*

*as Sean M said this fricking planet can use some healing but not the hollywood type but the real thing
there is a story behind a story and an onion has many layers only the outer layer is visible just ten per cent of what s really going on*

*if one suppresses the black wolf by focusing too much on being a white wolf, against all odds, one turns into a new dictator
over time as the black wolf will not allow to be suppressed like that, that s how the game works
a deep story hardly anyone nowadays understand*

still it is very plain and simple once one does understand clear as ice

Demons at the Door

Posted by Shaman Tony Geron

Aho! Mitakuye oyasin!

(Lakota greeting meaning "all my relatives" or "we are all related")

Living in the condo/townhouse had afforded me some fun new experiences, ala "The Birth of a Spiritual Warrior", and also some unexpected changes from a completely different direction.

In my work career, both working full time doing computer IT work, and as a consultant, I had the opportunity to meet many different people under unusual circumstances. At one place I was working in the evenings, helping to troubleshoot some server and network issues, I met a gentleman that immediately recognized my "other" side. He asked me if I was an energy worker, and I replied yes. Many conversations occurred after that first time, and we always would talk about very esoteric subjects relating to the hidden world around us.

Kev was a little older than me and had many interesting "talents". He was born with a somewhat unique gift, he could speak and understand 5 different languages from the time he could talk. English, French, Spanish, German and Russian. Right out of the box! What an amazing gift. Kev was also a long time student of many of the darker arts, and had studied The Tibetan Book of the Dead, among other things, and was under a very dark spell that lead him to some very scary places.

When Kev called me, I hadn't seen or spoken to him in a few years. He sounded desperate, and asked if I was still doing my healing work. I replied that I was. He had something he wanted to share with me regarding his life, but insisted that we had to talk in person, that it was not something he was comfortable discussing over the phone. I gave him my new address, and a few days later, he was knocking on my door.

In hindsight, my opening that door was far more than a physical act, it was more like I had opened the very doors of the Underworld, allowing far more than I had imagined, into my home and life.

Kev arrived and knocked, I opened the door, and there he stood. He looked aged and haggard. And scared. He asked me if I was still a Priest, and I indicated I was with a nod.

"Good! Well as a Priest, I come to you with one request, and I know because of your vows, you will not deny me this. I ask you now to SAVE MY SOUL!"

OH shit! Gulp.

I allowed Kev to enter, and bade him to make himself comfortable as I offered to get him something to drink, and to tell me about exactly what was going on with him.

He told me of his continuing journey of discovering secrets, and power. He told me of some very dark sorcery he had been doing, trying to open a Gate and bring forth a Demon, to do his bidding and even some scores. I found myself slowly shaking my head as he continued to describe all that he had done, and what had happened.

Demons! Great Spirit, I hate Demons!

He wound up his story by telling me of the reoccurring nightmares he had every single night since he had did his last summoning: he was in a coffin, buried in the ground, alive and awake, and could NOT get out! Every night, the same dream, over and over again. Every night, he would drink himself silly, hoping he could avoid dreaming and just sleep. But that wasn't happening. No, like clockwork, as soon as he closed his eyes, he was back in that coffin.

I scolded Kev long and hard for his foolishness. He insisted that much of what he had learned was from some Creole / French Masons, a group he had joined after being approached by a Freemason, and upon "testing" him, they initiated him into the local Masonic Temple.

Growl.

I'm not fond of groups or schools that would share this line of information without safeguards. In this case, it was literally like dangling candy before the baby.

In a very curt tone, I told Kev what I would have to do in order to save his Soul, and demanded that he there and then swear he would NEVER go playing in that direction again, or I would NOT help him a second time, and leave him to his just rewards from the demonic beings he would so foolishly play with again.

It took me three sessions to bring old Kev "back into the Light". The change in his appearance and demeanor was instant and obvious to us both. The dreams ceased immediately upon the third session. I pulled out numerous entities that had jumped into Kev and were feasting upon his Soul.

As a Priest, I sent them into the Light, their screams made my heart wince, but my Spirit rejoice.

Kev was beyond grateful. After some discussion, I agreed to allow him to stay with me, since I had lots of extra space, so he could help me with my "work", and I could keep a close eye on him for a while.

With Kev by my side, I suddenly had lots of enthusiasm to play with some of the free energy devices I had read about, and I built my very first Joe Cell, using stainless steel measuring cups bought from the local grocery store. That first night of creation, we had water bubbling away in the Cell, and we both were ecstatic!

Other areas of technology that was related to the Cell started to grab my attention, and I became very active in a number of different groups, and reproduced or built other devices to experiment with as well. I was going through a period unlike anything I had experienced before, and Kev seemed to be the catalyst in all of it. His enthusiasm was contagious, his support and help immeasurable.

We started to talk about finding land near by to purchase for a home and ranch/farm. I kept envisioning all of the devices I was currently working with helping me to get completely off of the grid and becoming self sufficient. Living in Maryland, Virginia was very close, and the Shenandoah River valley was uniquely beautiful, so we started to take some trips on the weekend to just explore the area and look for something that called out to us.

Then the invitation came.

My dear new sister and friend, the Rev. Carolyn Fumia, had introduced me to someone very special to her, a friend that lived in North Carolina. She had connected us via phone and email, and Jacques and I became fast friends.

Jacques called and told me of a local fair being held in Asheville, one that was held every year around the same time, and it was for all holistic healing folks to gather and share their arts and gifts. He wondered if that might interest me, and invited me to come and stay with him. Kev was invited too.

The trip to Asheville was about an eight hour drive, and my truck was packed with the massage table, my copper pipes for the grid I would build under the table once setup, and lots of crystals and Orgone pendants and other devices I had built.

We were to meet, upon arriving in Asheville, my new friend Jacques at the local grocery market, a store called Ingles. Weary from the driving and the journey, I called Jacques and told him of our arrival, and he described the truck he would drive in to meet us, and told me he would arrive within 20 minutes.

Kev and I sat in my truck, me with my head on a swivel, constantly scanning all incoming vehicles for a match with what Jacques had described, and Kev simply singing and playing with his knife, cleaning some imaginary dirt from under his nails.

I jumped up, startled, hitting my head on the roof of my truck's interior, Kev screamed and dropped his knife. Jacques was standing directly behind me, next to my truck, and had softly spoken my name.

What in the hell??

I never saw his truck pull into the parking lot, but there it sat, in the row directly behind me.

I never saw or "felt" him coming up on me, at all, and neither had Kev. He simply materialized suddenly next to my truck and startled us both completely.

"Jacques?" I asked meekly.

The short but sturdy man was still studying me, a wicked twinkle in his eye.

"Yep old boy, that would be me" he replied.

I shook my head, slowly opened my door, and stepped out to meet him. I towered over him, the differences in our heights was comical. A smile was now easily resting upon his lips.

"Brother, you startled us both! How on Earth did you manage to sneak up on not one, but two gifted individuals? No one has ever done that to me before. Ever!"

The twinkle in his eyes became more pronounced, and he suddenly chuckled.

"I am Lakota Sioux! Aho! I used big Medicine my friend, and sang the song of Invisibility, having stopped some two miles up the road to perform my ceremony. I have sat here for ten minutes watching you both, and you especially must be tired, watching your neck swivel back and forth for so long while you looked for me!"

My jaw dropped open, and I quickly looked over at Kev. Kev looked as if he had seen a ghost, and was nervously tossing his knife from hand to hand. Quick side note: Kev was a Black Belt in something called Kali, a Filipino martial art that uses knives and wooden batons as weapons of choice. Kev always had knives in his hand or upon his body, secreted.

"You sat there for ten minutes! That's just not possible Jacques, surely you are having some sport at my expense?" I asked.

Jacques smile grew deeper, and he nodded his head.

"My boy, I was trying not to hurt your feelings. I was actually already sitting here when you arrived, Spirit had told me of your getting close. I have been sitting here the whole time, right next to you."

Oh shit. Gulp. Carolyn, darling, you never mentioned just how special Jacques was...

"Jacques, just who or what are you?" I pondered out loud.

"Why my boy, I am just a simple Galactic Kick-Ass Shaman!"

Oh.

OK!

Well then...

"Aho, Brother Jacques!" And we embraced, and a lifetime friendship was sealed.

Had I bothered to look back, I might have been warned by what must have been crossing Kev's face in that moment: Fear, respect, and ENVY!

Aho!

well yeah, I hear ya....we hear a ear deafening amount of silence which is enough to fill a forum with for dozens of reasons but hey...

that s spilled milk

after a while you get a good idea of the mediocre modus and political correctness aka selfishness of most folk cowardice

I cleaned up the forum a bit, as recently too much Irish feminine beauty, slight case of over bombing, not just that , also some other stuff, might have popped up here and there and they envy us anyway as we are so we don t have to overdo it, they can t stand us anyway so why rub it in

nah...let s do it , let s rub it in well we don't mind the resin puppies at all Jenn, honestly , we love them too, not as much as we love ourselves, but...we wont burn them at the stake, as they love to do with us, the leaders, the brainwashers. We are not like that, we are way above that hoopla.

Let them make those 500 euro monsters that hardly hold nowadays as the geoengineering goes into ultra level, nah...let them have their modest results. Why use something that is free and is at least 40 times stronger, I mean , really , come on , why would anyone do that.

Whaaa....not mentioning the galore of other benefits, save, easy, fun, natural, jadija...

We can't have that , can we ?

Freedom, yikes...that sounds like an insult almost.

Open the cage J, don't worry the little gold birds won't leave the cage.

Probably think the earth is flat too because some "sensei" said so...go figure.

Sad is it not.

But as one of your mates said, you can lead a horse to water package is almost ready , maybe I can manage to send it of during the week or else weekend or next monday.

Dunno what you are up to lady Ireland, but I hope there is a cold on in it for me.

Let us dream ...real big

by josh »

All of us have done much with our gifting on all possible fronts with all kind of modalities, and yet our reality is still within the dream of what we do not care for, so let us see if there is a way to turn this around. As we look at the state of affair on our world, we can sum it up with couple of words: it sucks!!!!!!!!!!!!!! The parasites are still, so it appear, have the upper hands. Well then!!!, why can we not change our reality, our dream of what we would like it to be. From what I can figure and hear so much about is that we create our own life, our own reality. I think there is more to this. As we look upon our today, outside reality, it leaves a whole lot to be desire, so it may be well to live in a different world, a world where all is to our liking. How do we do that: as we desire an existence of peace, gentleness and freedom, it is just that: a desire, I think we can do a little more to have it become real. As we see, imagine, live, dream, taste a life of beauty, and as we are experiencing this "new" state, we are creating an etheric existence, and as the focus on that dream happen more and more often, it become more and more real. So what we are doing is not only attracting a new life for our self, but it is a two prong effort, first this new life is attracted to us because of our focus, but also we are attracted to it because it is a great deal more pleasant, it is indeed like a magnet. Let us see where we go with this, I am certain we can refine it and come up with wonderful ideas, there is lots to comment and share Josh

Thanks for those inspiring thoughts, Josh. There are those who would respond by asking: 'what can possibly be achieved by dreams?' On the surface; they may have a point (albeit a rather uninspired one). A dream only becomes a reality when we begin to live the dream, regardless of the 'accepted' view of the world and its [negative] influences. The 'parasites' only have the upper hand if we allow them to. They rely almost entirely on their deception being regarded as reality (and an ever-growing proportion of the population is not so easily taken in). There are many influences that work in the favour of the Parasites. Chemical influences (flouride, Chemtrails etc). Electromagnetic influences (ungifted cell networks etc). Media influences (pop music, movies, newspapers, magazines, TV etc). All these influences seek to poison our minds and bodies and render us defenseless against the continuing onslaught of the media deception. As you mention; many of us have done much to counter the electromagnetic and chemical influences in our respective areas so we come to your point concerning what else might be done to realize our dream of a wholesome existence for all. We can live our dream. Behave as though we do not believe the lies and deception. Act as though we are above the Parasites influence. Speak the truth whenever we converse with others. Live our lives in line with our own view of the world. Laugh at the pathetic efforts of the Parasites to influence us. Pity them for what they have become. Our example will open minds to the reality and dispense with the deception. We have gifted our orgonite; now let's gift the truth that we each understand so well to those less fortunate. Dan.

A wonderful post, thank you Dan The biggest effort to be made is to not believe the dream/life that the parasites are pushing down our throat. To free our self from this insistent nightmare we must turn our back on all of their imposed fear, laugh at them and start living/dreaming the life /reality we prefer. It may be that as we "fight back" against the chem trails and their deceptions, we may be playing into their hands simply because we are in the game with them, well it may be best to no longer want to play ball with them; let them play.....all by them self One of our stumbling block is their insistence to look and pay attention to their demented way of life, the enormity of the events are requiring our attention, it must be a concentrated effort on our part to focus solely on our real/dream world and let the illusion fade in the sewage it came from. This beauty is waiting for us, to turn away from the puppet show

josh, edostar, thank you for the beautiful words.

I believe we are going through the wonderful times, and the earth has made a wonderful decision to ascend to the 5D. if the ascension process has started in 2003, and all cells in our bodies change in 7 years, then we are a completely different beings today and are now fully equipped to continue the journey I think we are all feeling/experiencing the changes in the earth and the cosmos, and that is helping us to wake up, and see that the dream that was always part of us -is coming forth i can see a wonderful, peaceful, loving, balanced place, where there is no fear, hatred, domination and greed... I think the changes has started already, and there is no way back now!!!

When using your Selenite Wand in any of these ways or to amplify healing, make certain you use your inner powers to wipe clean the energy that has been placed into the Selenite.

Superior for psychic development and intuitive processes.

A growing number of readers are finding Selenite more useful and manageable than Quartz Crystal.

Quartz has that uncompromising habit of amplifying everything, positive or negative. As a bridge to altered states of consciousness, Selenite is an excellent tool for visualization, meditation and working with the subconscious.

Selenite Goes to the source of physical disorders and provides insights into probable causes.

Outstanding as a journeying tool for Shamans.

Its unique ability to connect and balance the Spiritual and Physical bodies enables Selenite to do similar work between two persons.

Working with the subtle bodies Selenite pushes one to the area most in need of clearing and balancing. Its power in working with all of the chakras makes Selenite a universal healing implement.

Selenite is not like any other healing stone or wand that focuses its particular energy on a problem.

Selenite works like a tuner on a radio to discover locations of static in the aura. As your own awareness grows so will your use of this mystical mineral. Because of this ability to flow light into all situations coupled with its physical structure it is an ideal wand making material.

The energy flow is an ideal carrier of the energies of other crystals added to the wands." So the above may explain some of what we experience with Plasterite.

Blessings

Steve

Re: THE IRISH TOPIC

You're always surprising with your photos Sunflower, your archives must be immense. Please dont hold making resin Chembusters against me, it took some months before the idea of using plaster took hold. But when it did- BAM BAM and no going back.

Feeling excited about the new package from you. What's coming your way is MUCH less exciting I'm afraid.

Your views on the closed section will be much fewer I suspect.

Wonderful stuff, a fresh breath of air as they say..

Fruitful Imagination

Posted by Shaman Tony Geron

Aho! Mitakuye oyasin!

(Lakota greeting meaning “all my relatives” or “we are all related”)

The electronic Universe is buzzing this night regarding the loss of a titan, Steve Jobs. Steve’s footprint is immense, he literally transcended greatness on many levels, his vision and endearing stubbornness, legendary.

After writing Springboard, lots of fun things transpired in my neck of the woods, some of them, Monumental.

OK, it’s a lousy attempt at a inside joke, meaning the Washington Monument cracking.

If I remember things correctly, we had the earthquake first, then later that week, we got hit by the hurricane. I know I had mentioned the energy of change was upon us, and so that one week episode was just a brief serving of it locally for us.

Great change is afoot. The weather continues to be unusual, the daily spraying of chemtrails has not abated. One day out of six one might see actual sky blue color of the sky, not the much lighter dispersed chemtrail fake light blue/white. There are endless links if you do a search on the subject, I will leave it to you, the gentle reader to make the discernment regarding reality.

A dear friend suddenly slide downwards from the news and treatments for stage 4 cancer, and my personal world slowly rocked, even more devastating to me than the earlier storm and quake. My friend is like a brother to me, his illness and deterioration has been challenging to watch and react to, the many lessons of life suddenly nimbly at my emotional fingertips, and I have maintained, even raised my energy and vibration, to help my friend to muster courage and determination of successfully overcoming this seemingly hopeless situation.

It’s funny how we sometimes play the foil for our family members or friends, the perfect straight man or comic. My friendship with this man I call a brother, is similar to that. Me, forever saying, “Who’s there?” to the never ending “Knock, knock!”.

I suddenly found myself asking that very question, of my own volition.

Who's there?

Huh?

Yeah YOU.

Who are you? Who do you see yourself as? Who are you, that sees yourself so?

Hmmm.

OK, that's a flip. Good questions.

I found myself looking at me, as I experienced all of the above, and wondering just who I really thought I was, and how did I come to believe this to be true?

Wow. That's deep.

In my case, a lifetime of interactions with others has helped me to see myself more clearly. I would run a thousand miles to avoid confrontation or anything negative. I would circle the earth endlessly to spread and be pure love.

I would help and die for a perfect stranger. Always. I would love any child, no matter what race or ethnicity. I would never consciously harm another, nor an animal or fish, reptile or bird either.

And yet, those are root forms of me.

I take great risks. I have great imagination. I am a dreamer. I believe in the power of love.

I am arrogant, selfish, judgmental, and even bitter, at my worst.

And yet, I am filled with such compassion and passion for life. For finding the best in myself and others, and sharing the common joys of a smile or laugh, as often as possible.

And still that does not truly define me, not even close. So many encounters, so many conversations, so many experiences, all of them cumulative in their creation of this greater self.

That self has confidence in the face of disaster. That self has determination regardless of obstacle. That self has power, in the sense of strength and sureness.

These “parts” came with the bruises, the hurts, the tears, the laughter, the dancing, the singing. So many instances of unexpected but amazing things manifesting and happening, almost surreal or illusion.

What makes us, us?

How did we get here??

Steve Jobs would tell you it’s through living life full speed ahead. Every second of every day, like it’s your last. Refusing to be intimidated or cowed by others, in their view or belief in your vision or dream.

Looking back through my self absorption, I realized one thing that still has me looking at myself in the mirror with a new respect.

In some crazy, unaccountable way, I really have created and lived the fantasy and dreams I have had, since I was a child.

In some way, I have experienced all the things I used to wonder about, and dream of having done. My dreams have been fluid, never ending stream of glimpses of alternative or future life and worlds.

Not everything has worked out how I imagined, not even close. Even better, I have received so many blessings in the guise of loss or tragedy, and I would wince in remembrance at one point years ago. Not now.

Our life on Mother Earth is one of learning, and it’s constant. We learn to breathe immediately, then cry. Feeding comes next, then elimination. We get the basics down pretty quick. Everything else from that point is gravy, as they say!

Smile.

Ask yourself the questions I shared. Think about who you are today, and who you were, even a year ago. Think about every second that you have been awake, and the accumulation of being here. Are you happy, fearful, determined, depressed? Why?

I found that I would look at where I was, then look at where some part of me expected me to be, and this internal disparity was causing some conflict, emotionally for me. Must be time to change that expectation. Reality overrides such things. I have one thousand dollars, not one million, so I must be happy with what I do have and can achieve with such!

A recent quote summed it up pretty good, I will share in closing.

The happiest people don’t have the best of everything, they make the best of everything!

Aho!

Re: THE IRISH TOPIC

You're always surprising with your photos Sunflower, your archives must be immense. Please dont hold making resin Chembusters against me, it took some months before the idea of using plaster took hold. But when it did- BAM BAM and no going back.

Feeling excited about the new package from you. What's coming your way is MUCH less exciting I'm afraid.

Your views on the closed section will be much fewer I suspect.

and I do have some material on techniques that work for those who can handle it, in an age where most information that is for our benefit disappears like snow in the sun and all we are left with is "bling bling" once you look up a dictionary, there is nothing in it, like the dictionaries are getting thinner by the year, soon folk cannot even communicate or share ideas and concept properly as they simply don't have the words to do so.

*yes bam bam thank you mam , you did come in as a little tornado there

*Determined Jenn, you are , unfortunately most guys here have the scars to prove it by now or maybe we are just fortunate but too snobbish to admit we are quite fond of that someone who gets things going even though you see it as a minor effort , it is not it gets things done, energy in movement and it reaches objectives and not just in the spiritual world but just as well on the material level
as you have experienced yourself very well by now.*

The perception story here is very important , as it gives a lot of clues , many keys there, absolutely.

This " filter" that s being discussed.

It s like that indeed.

we are like clay and the elite know this for so long and make sure we are molded into their design before it is too late before we might think for ourselves and that wont happen.

So it is very hard to escape the programming, the " filter" of reality for most.

But it can be done.

It is not for everyone.

Re: THE IRISH TOPIC

This is becoming a mutual admiration society Sunflower, luckily I'm a quieter type, keeping my opinions to myself mostly. But for the record, very proud of you and all you do, and you must be doing something right judging by the number of view you get, or maybe people just want to see what the young whippersnapper is going to astonish us with next lol.

Seriously though, your writing is always with feeling and surprising.

It's excellent to have the archive material secure (we trust) and for sure it does not come and go, come and go with great regularity as seems to happen with your posts on FB

It's very interesting reading the reports from Tony aka Spirit Walker, we are honoured to have someone with his qualities on here and on Facebook.

I think woe betide anyone who tries to put you on a leash Sunflower, you might then change into a Rottweiler

..Steiner... well allow me to say , be careful..there is more to the story than the eye can catch

Rudolf Steiner and Freemasonry

Was Rudolf Steiner a Freemason?

Yes.

Irrespective of the manner in which some may want to pussy-foot around this aspect of his life, Steiner was initiated into Freemasonry and also held warrants from Theodore Reuss for the Memphis-Misraïm Rite. Steiner also actively set up, with those warrants, a number of Lodges under the names Misraim-Dienst [M.D.] and Mystica Aeterna [M.E.]. Given the situation in 1914 (opening of WWI), the German Lodges were 'closed' (whatever this may mean in practical terms). At a meeting in Oslo in 1921, Steiner also 'dissolved' the rite. Steiner's Masonic connections are therefore exclusively derived from Reuss and Yarker and the rite so-named above, operating, it should be noted, in a co-Masonic context.

There has also been (likely incorrect) claims made that Steiner was a member of the Ordo Templi Orientis (O.T.O.). This, it seems, is based on three factors. In the first place due to his connection with Reuss (who founded the O.T.O.), given that it is from Reuss that Steiner obtained the Memphis Misraïm warrants on which is mentioned the forerunner of the O.T.O.); in the second place due to their physical proximity: Reuss lived for a time in Basle (Basel), and Steiner was given a plot of land on the outskirts of Basle (Dornach) for the establishment of the Goetheanum; thirdly, there is the anecdotal reference by Alice Sprengel, that Peter-R. Koenig notes in the following manner:

In approximately 1934, Alice Sprengel, once a member of M.E. (until 1915, when she became secretary of Reuss), notes from memory the alleged O.T.O.-pledge form written by Steiner which he allegedly ripped up in August 1914.

It seems to me more likely that any 'ripped up pledge' would have been of any affiliations between the M.E. and Reuss (either some pledge to regard Reuss as pre-eminent with regards to Memphis-Misraim or as affiliate or initiator of Steiner). It's very likely that Alice Sprengel mis-recalled the details of connections between Steiner and Reuss, and in the intervening years followed Reuss's own predilection for 'merging' his version of Freemasonry and the (still developing) O.T.O.. For more details on this, see Peter-R. Koenig's page 'Rudolf Steiner: Never a member of any Ordo Templi Orientis'.

So: though Rudolf Steiner was a Freemason and the rituals used were based and derived from the Memphis-Misraïm Rite passed through Yarker and Reuss, it is quite distinct to what Reuss develops as the O.T.O..

Writings on Freemasonry

Most of Steiner's lectures on Freemasonry are included in two volumes: Temple Legend, and Occult Brotherhoods.

Recently, the rituals (with commentary) used in the M.Æ. have also been published (Freemasonry and Ritual Work). At the very least, I would think that Freemasons interested in esoteric matters, as well as Antroposophists interested in ritual work, would want to investigate these rituals and compare them to the more common and specifically APMM Rite and, for that matter, various Freemasonic rites in general.

Over the past few years, a number of Freemasons from various constitutions have expressed interest in working in a more Anthroposophical manner using as a basis Steiner's M.D. rituals. It should perhaps also be remembered that Steiner considered these of importance, and that he had planned to develop this aspect as part of the 'Second Class'.

Continuing existence of the Rite

In 1906, he considers it important to 'save the Misraim-Dienst for the future'. 'Saving' the rite 'for the future' in part includes, it seems to me, that there has been an ongoing active preservation by active participants, and not just as mere written words now (in part) published in the above mentioned books.

Is there a discrepancy between this and the 'closing' of the M.Æ. in Germany at the opening of WWI? Having been involved in various esoteric orders for some thirty years, it seems to me that an 'outer' aspect of the order may indeed be dissolved, with a core continuing maintenance of the work in a more private manner. Also, the M.Æ. was 'dissolved' at a meeting in Oslo. This does not mean that the M.Æ.'s various Lodges in other parts of Europe would necessarily have followed suit.

It appears to me that there is sufficient anecdotal evidence that various M.Æ. groups did indeed continue the work, saving 'the Misraim-Dienst for the future'.

Still, never throw out the baby with the bathwater, that has some meaning too.
But that's a totally different story.

But as this little scout says , be prepared aka on your guard.

With topics like Steiner there is always a real reason hidden behind the given reason.

Let's keep it there for now.

This yam is thus akin to a “being” of goodwill, a presence that has come to help us become stewards of our consciousness and the soul of Earth through both practical and meditative work.

It has long been known that light is vital to life and there has been much research on the significance of light as it pertains to healing, consciousness and human health. Light is taken in through the eyes and via the skin, which is the largest organ of the body. We know through the saints and sages of all religions that we are light bearing spiritual beings having a human earthly experience.

Those who are working with various aspects and modalities of light as it applies to human health and consciousness include the late Dr. David Bohm, Dr Peter Mandel, the biophysicist Dr. Fritz-Albert Popp, Dr. Jacob Liberman, Ralf Roessner and others.

In describing the workings of light these researchers all speak of it as nutrition and medicine, the medium whereby cells communicate. It is also mentioned as partially responsible for the manifestation of form through the formless etheric realm. Illness is the absence of coherent light and the inability of the cells to communicate effectively. Various forms of light therapy bring about a restored cellular communication.

It has been demonstrated that light is involved in every aspect of metabolism, and it is now thought that animals and birds migrate and move in synchronicity through light communication.

The experiential qualities of the light root include the possibility of countless benefits: an increased feeling of peace and calmness; a restored and revitalizing sleep rhythm; a heartfelt sense of unity consciousness; a certain immunity from the sub-natural, degenerate and fallen light ether of the invisible sea of electromagnetic frequencies to which we are exposed and vulnerable and a finer quality of absorption of the vital nutritional forces in food. A partial testimonial reports, "Since using Dioscorea batatas on clients, I have noticed a subtle and consistent response of the client becoming more peaceful and relaxed after applying the cream to the following areas: radial artery, carotid artery, between and slightly above the eyebrows (energetic pineal gland point)."

Upon first taking the homeopathic light root remedy (pellets, taken orally), the author experienced going through a mild earthquake, swaying slightly to both sides of the body and then into alignment with a sense of unity throughout the body and mind. Over time, this changed into a witnessing perspective as the internal light communication in the DNA allowed life, with all its various adversities, to be perceived from a calm, peaceful and nonreactive position. This included times of crises, allowing a balance of humor and humility to ride out the storm.

Through the redeeming aspect of human consciousness, we can serve as light bearers to bring about benevolent collaboration for the true advancement of humankind. It is my premise that the light root is tantamount to a kind "being" that assists us during the immense changes upon us.

The honeybee is another such friend, as are the blessed seeds of our food plants that the bees gift to us through their unity consciousness of selflessness and love.

Much like the presence of coherent light-to-light connections in and between healthy cells, we can each—through the essence of our individual light—communicate with kindness, empathy and respect. Such qualities co-create safe, unified ground upon the playing field of consciousness.

The true renewable resources we share with our brothers and sisters are, therefore, precious particles that foster an emerging global village. Our times are urging us to grow up, become spiritually mature, occupy our light body and shine.

Light Yam (Dioscorea batatas):
Living Medicine and Optimal Healing Conditions

DSCN44361.jpg (27.79 KiB) Viewed 37 times

The intent of this white paper is to share my experiences of integrating the light yam within sacred agriculture practices via the biodynamic preparations. I first thought to bring the light yam into my praxis in May 2012 and have been doing so ever since.

After presenting the Agriculture Lectures, Rudolf Steiner (1924) responded to a question from two participants regarding the potential of the preparations to supply adequate nutrition for our times (Keyserlingk, 2000; Roessner, 2014). He said that, in the future, the biodynamic preparations would not be sufficient to support adequate nutrition even under the most favorable conditions. Further, Steiner indicated that the light yam would become indispensable as a food and living medicine for the human etheric body (n.d.). In other words, the dense light ether of this plant can act as a carrier of spirit and thus serve higher human consciousness. Steiner also told us that the light yam ought to replace the European potato, the overconsumption of which he thought responsible for materialistic thinking (Keyserlingk, 2000; Roessner, 2014). That is, potatoes, because they have not quite developed into a true root such as beets and carrots, remain in the intestines and their nourishment never reaches the head or the brain (Steiner, 1991).

It is my premise that Steiner foresaw what electricity would mean to humankind. It is clear that we are now fully immersed in technologies that further separate us from nature and our own essential being. As far back as 1924, Steiner could see that human beings would become “inductive apparatuses” (Steiner, 1923, Lectures ..., p. 10; Steiner, 1923, Gesamtausgabe..., p. 13; Zimmermann, n.d.) through the invisible and subnatural forces of electricity, which he referred to as “fallen light ether.” Steiner (1923, July; Kaslev, n.d.) described the etheric reality (n.d.) as the region of the nature spirits, or elementals as Paracelsus (n.d.) called them.

It is far from the truth to say that we are “turning on the light.” Actually, we are activating the artificial electricity that interferes with and disrupts the human electromagnetic field and brain rhythms, which for optimal human health are thought to function best at the longstanding Schumann Resonance (SR) rate of 7.83 Hertz. The SRs (n.d.) comprise a set of spectrum peaks in the extremely low frequency (ELF) portion of the Earth’s electromagnetic field. Schumann resonances occur globally and are naturally generated and excited by lightning discharges within the cavity formed by the Earth’s surface and the ionosphere.

Not all scientists, however, accept that SRs are universally constant. Gregg Braden (2012) and other researchers, such as those at the Global Coherence Initiative (2016), report that the SR rate regularly rises to 11 Hertz and higher. It is interesting to note that as the SRs (sometimes called Mother Earth’s heartbeat) increase, we may feel an “awakened calm” that reflects humankind seeking balance with the new energies. Perhaps this awakening is also happening in other life forms—both seen and unseen (Forti, 2015).

The interfering technologies to which I refer include the following:

- ☒ Nonionized electromagnetic radiation (EMR), such as smart meters, wireless energy, cell phone towers, radar installations, and other electrically driven home and industrial appliances
- ☒ Aerosol spraying and ionospheric heater technology that cause the ingestion and inhalation of nanobots and heavy metal nanoparticles
- ☒ Inoculations that contain mercury, other toxic chemicals, or self-propelled nanobots harmful to life
- ☒ Synthetic fertilizers and pesticides, including new mixes with nanobots
- ☒ Biotechnology and genetically modified organisms (GMOs).
- ☒ Ionizing radiation, such as from the following: deployed nuclear weapons disguised as earthquakes and such, inevitable leaks in nuclear plants, only-one-choice cancer remedies made of radioactive chemicals, nuclear waste moved by high-risk transportation and buried near large population centers, and pesticides and agrichemicals dumped in local landfills worldwide and often left smouldering after, for example, spontaneously erupting, accidentally catching on fire, or purposely being set ablaze.

Robert Becker warned in 1990 that modern technologies allow frequencies to be pulsed in and through us that affect our natural rhythms and cycles. As a result, these conventions thwart us from remembering our divine inheritance. Since the mid-1990s, the Earth also has been challenged to absorb the intended balancing effects of the biodynamic preparations, which allow life to thrive. Although we need more grounded research to confirm this, the planet is clearly unable to supersede the consequences of our mistreatment. For example, increased amounts of atmospheric and earthly pollution, made evident by the rise in conductive aluminum particulates and increasing alkalinity in the soil and acidity in the oceans, reportedly cause all manner of deleterious outcomes (Klinghardt, n.d.; Otterpohl, n.d.; Freeland, 2014).

The rise of wireless technologies and the nonionizing radiation of electromagnetic frequencies subsequently bring unwanted changes as well to the human and planetary etheric bodies residing in the unseen world. The human etheric body is the egg-shaped aura that surrounds the physical body and is the source of life energy. The planetary etheric body is a widespread mental energy field that includes the noösphere. We connect with this realm through thought, feeling, prayer, and meditation. Teilhard de Chardin and others have proposed that the noösphere (n.d.) greatly affects the health and consciousness of sentient beings and the planet alike. For example, Steiner suggested that many heart ailments are partially due to one's inability to develop the third etheric heart, which is born through self-realization. It "becomes an eye of cognition for supersensible beings and for the etheric Christ Himself, protected and cherished in the Michaelic mystery-culture of will as it is destined for our epoch" (Steiner, 1924; Haertl, 2000).

The fact that problematic electromagnetic frequencies, multiplied by heavy metal nanoparticles such as aluminum, are silent and invisible should not deter us from examining the immense effects they may have on health and consciousness. The intense planetary forces they unleash also suggest an unseen world beyond the physical terrain, causing us to examine every relationship with both our immediate environment and the cosmos.

We can do much better. Those who work with the good, the true, and the beautiful in the formative and etheric realms—via the elementals and cosmic creative energies in meditative and practical work—stand at an unprecedented portal. We are called to respond lovingly and willingly to the renewing life stream that is offered to all, regardless of one's motives or actions. We are living in a time when the heroic battles that Archangel Michael fought with Lucifer and Ahriman in the heavens are now being played out on Earth through the asuras. According to Karyn Martin-Kuri (1996), "As with any situation of group evolution, there were angelic beings who held themselves back and refused to participate fully in spiritual development." These battles in the heavens "happen over and over, as long as we have manifestation in physical form. The asuras have their origin in the realm of the rebellious dynameis [antirhythmic activities contrary to nature] and can be felt in such situations as mass murders accomplished without any emotion" (p. 64).

It is time that we each step up to the plate and declare our creative, spiritual right to cocreate with Mother Earth without interference. Through a moral agenda, together we can choose to bring in the Christ light—or risk being plunged deeper into darkened realms.

The growing awareness of increasing adverse energies visited me during the early 1990s when I experienced surprising hindrances while working with the biodynamic preparations. They seemed not to take hold and bring about the intended healing in the landscape. For instance, when the preparations were related to the increase or the decrease of available moisture, I detected a blockage in the "aura" of the landscape. It was necessary to do several stir and spray sequences to bring in the intended moisture (rain). Likewise, I noted a reduced amount of atmospheric oxygen during this time, particularly during hot spells in the summer when it was difficult to breathe. It seemed that the Earth's respiration and absorption rhythms were out of balance. In the presence of intensifying winds and storms in our area, the preps' apparent moderation in weather patterns and rhythms was no longer a given. I had not known a time when I was not able to use them to "make music" with the Earth. Something seemed awry with the harmonics of the transmitting and receiving forces in both humans and nature.

To highlight my concern, I shall relay memories from two different time periods that stand in stark contrast to each other. These details happened during the individualization of Aurora Farm in the Kootenay River Valley of southeast British Columbia. First, in 1989, I recollect the protection afforded by the horn manure (#500)—the initial preparation added to the land. Upon completion of the spray, I experienced a palpable buffer of nourishment, like a protective shield over the landscape (earth and atmosphere) where the horn manure had been sprayed. I could feel a distinct veil between sprayed and unsprayed areas. I also had the sensation of a bridge being created from my thinking and feeling to my will forces, along with the awareness that the elementals (cosmic creative energies) were present and assisting in this process. As the agricultural practitioner, I was not doing anything per se; my will was simply attuning to the etheric formative energies. All was well.

Paramahansa Yogananda (2002) described will as "that which changes thought into energy" (p. 32). When my will was attuned to the incoming cosmic creative energies, I experienced grace and ease as I was directed to the necessary action. I would describe it as surrendering, a "Thy will, not mine" experience. Other times, when my will was weaker, it was a constant struggle to merge with the landscape angels and hierarchies, to be able to listen and hear without distraction, judgment, and forcing the issue. This weakening included times of illness when the body was less strong.

My contrasting memory occurred in the early years of the millennium, when the first cell phone tower was installed on the hill immediately to the north of the farm. I sensed that the goodness and protective forces, which had been built up over the years via the biodynamic preparations (combined with my agnihotra practice²), were being tampered with by the electromagnetic frequencies and radiation now all around. Along with this came a noticeable weakening of my will and retreat of the elemental beings. Suddenly all was not well in the landscape.

During composting workshops on the farm and in other places, I now needed to request participants to leave their electronic devices elsewhere, knowing that the elementals are unable to do their work in the presence of electrosmog. We risk the betrayal of these etheric helpers when we bring further materialistic forces between us. After all, we are in debt to the spiritual world for all of our knowledge and awareness (Steiner, 1923, Man...).

In the past several years, I have taken Steiner at his word, interacting with two light yam products to discover their etheric properties. The first was introduced in 2009 and is intended for human healing—16x homeopathic pellets of dioscorea batatas. In January 2012, I facilitated the preparation of a product consisting of 16x dioscorea batatas, homeopathic gold, frankincense, lavender, and myrrh oils added to a base cream. Because the skin is the largest assimilative organ, the cream acts as a protective shield from the antirhythmic forces suspected of causing unprecedented illness in the four kingdoms of life on the planet.

In my current practice, I grind the homeopathic light yam pellets at a dosage rate confirmed by dowsing (kinesiology)² to integrate them into the biodynamic stirring and spraying process. While stirring, I also intone sacred Sanskrit sounds (coherent frequencies, such as Om³) into a sun-infused rainwater solution. I find it important to maintain clear intent before and during the work. At the same time, I seek to remain open to aspects of higher consciousness associated with this benevolent plant friend.

In my experience, the light yam enhances the healing effects of the biodynamic preparations, allowing a continuous and unbroken light stream that “catches” in the physical world, as observed in a newly planted seedbed when all conditions stand at optimum. I do not claim to understand the subtle action of the light ether in this living medicine, as we do not yet have adequate language or research to describe all the workings of the four ethers and the formative forces in flux behind nature. I do know, however, that each time I use the light yam for the express purpose of healing in the context of sacred agriculture, its beneficial results are soon apparent.

We are often at a loss to describe the intrinsic nature or essence of a new remedy. I would summarize the workings of the light yam as setting up the optimal conditions for healing to occur through continuous light-to-light communication. By contrast, illness occurs when the light stream is broken or interrupted (Becker, 1990). The light yam, when used either alone or along with biodynamic preparations, seems to reset the harmonics in the energy field. It acts as a portal to a unified field in which the remedies can take hold and nourish the territory in question.

The overall outcome is meant to assist the elemental and spiritual realms for the good of all. The nourishment we receive in return integrates our feeling and thinking bodies with the strength of will. Thus, enlightened moral impulses become more tangible, more available. In this way, the human steward becomes the preparation itself, and we begin to truly move in and through the formative etheric realms via new portals that allow cosmic creative energies to stream forth.

This is the first of a series of white papers concerning various research topics associated with the light root or yam (Dioscorea batatas). I invite comments from my colleagues to join with others in the ongoing dialogue on this living medicine. Also, I am seeking those who may wish to be small-scale growers of the light yam as well as co-producers of quality light root homeopathic remedies.

Re: THE IRISH TOPIC

Goodness the post is getting quicker, just sent two days ago. Glad you like the cone moulds, I think you will, nice smooth surface if you clean them well beforehand. And I'm so impressed at your research into the Dioscoria, obviously I haven't had time to read it, the only thing I'd heard about it was that it can take us to higher realms, whatever that is. So don't just gulp it down, really intending that you use it for Plasterite. W

I'll have a 'good read' of it later. Also hope you like the little cone, I quite like the feel of this shape

The following popped up somewhere today, in line with the 'Lakota' theme from Tony, I like it a lot.

Higher realms...whoops....hmm be careful with the red wine I send a while ago, thank goodness it's only a small bottle.

Chardonnay or something if I recall...

Do you or can you give any advice on how to take it, use it, should I drink the whole bottle at once and gain ultra spirituality

the number 12 is scribbled on it can use it for silver water, this colloidal silver water oh gosh , you see what you do to me, make me realize how stubborn and ignorant I am, damn.

PS nice little bottle with a pipette...

Because we hardly use these techniques often enough , as we are all such little busy rabbits

Yesterday I healed myself with a life pillow, I take that for granted now, used a huge one, MG is not right on this one, it is not worth its weight in gold

it's worth much much more.

might do some tests this weekend

have to get that special plaster

that fast type

If I fill it up to approx. 70 % it is almost identical to the original model that would be a good thing

The Wayfarer

The beauty of the world hath made me sad,

This beauty that will pass;

Sometimes my heart hath shaken with great joy

To see a leaping squirrel in a tree,

Or a red lady-bird upon a stalk,

Or little rabbits in a field at evening,

Lit by a slanting sun,

Or some green hill where shadows drifted by

Some quiet hill where mountainy man hath sown

And soon would reap; near to the gate of Heaven;

Or children with bare feet upon the sands

Of some ebb'd sea, or playing on the streets

*Of little towns in Connacht, Things young and happy.
And then my heart hath told me:
These will pass,
Will pass and change, will die and be no more,
Things bright and green, things young and happy;
And I have gone upon my way Sorrowful.*

Re: THE IRISH TOPIC

Well how annoying, hate that, lots of typing then suddenly, poof it's gone. Better start again a little less enthusiastically :-(You asked some questions about using the Dioscoria)

Lots of different organite modalities touched on there so may not go down too well with the purists among us. Mark says 'I received the Light Yam or Discorea Batata tincture from Margie (See the post below about how Biodynamic farmers use it for clearing electrosmog and other pollutants from/ the biosphere) (Is this on your post earlier Sunflower?) 'I'll be making this into a 12x potency for adding to Plasterite so as to enhance its crap-clearing capabilities. If you'd like me to post you some etc etc' So unless you want to try drinking some and/or using in your silver water, keep for putting into Plasterite. You probably know how to make it go further by adding a certain number of drops into a certain amount of water (will have to check up on this) and banging it on something hard about 50 times taking it to another level. Great technical information there I'm sure you'll agree.

Nice poem you shared by Padraig Pearse, who was one of the 1916 Irish Uprising Revolutionaries, who was executed shortly afterwards.

Your bottle of wine is long gone, enjoyed by Alastair and me on a Plasterite workshop day. And now recycled for gifting.

Re: THE IRISH TOPIC

thanks for the info and I do look into history as history always seems to repeat itself.

there is a connection mentioned regarding the effects of the "yam" also related to the electrosmog etc

so it s to increase of influence the tool of light ...aha...

damn had almost drunk that stuff , hmm..lucky me eh

maybe it can have good effects in other areas too..but I can t say that in mixed company....

the new perfume...

you can always use a trick, if you are planning to do a bit more of typing and therefor the post may get stalled or disappear, etc, maybe best to type it first in notepad or some text editor, the story , when done open a new post and just copy paste the text so you are always on the safe site.

Happened to me too, couple of times.

PARTING CLOUDS

When dark clouds hold festivals spanning forty years or more the sun always managed a Few seconds of what could be.

My North's turbulent past cannot be painted over in a half hearted splash of colour to obliterate unspoken grief endured.

Totems on gravel walls play the part of aesthetics
by understanding cultures of the people who live here.

Peace, by the politics of talk has anchored itself on the dialogue of its leaders, Prepared to listen, now.

Tribal tolerance and a longing
for peace, wins the war.

Landscape of Self

THOSE DAYS ARE GONE

I have witnessed change often
as peace has come
To this corner of the world.

My memory holds things that a loud bang
often releases on speck.

I look at my grandson with hopes for his future filled with equality peace and confidence.

Religious divides diminish
As the seasons pass.
Each year; a new spark on the horizon.

I have witnessed change often
as peace has come
mostly within myself were winter loiters.

Re: THE IRISH TOPIC

Also I want to have a little save haven you see where we can talk more openly , that is important.

Knowing only members can see it.

Also opened a few other topics so they can learn something.

But this topic will stay closed.

We dont need hunder thousand views, we need folk who do something about it all , that s what we need.

Jenn said ah they wont register probably, well, maybe not, I also think they wont register, shows us how real the people are...roll roll..

Anyway, just back from the post office and everything went smoothly to my own surprise

3 larger pieces , I used bubble plastic to protect them but one can never really tell, can ya ?

If they survive the trip...

in worst case you can repair them of course, easy to do...use plaster...

I have repaired a lot and it works but it will always be a weak spot later on if you lift them or so ..whoops..

Re: THE IRISH TOPIC

The Irish Topic is too important to be locked down or being withheld from the public.

Even if those muppets refuse to register for membership aka subscribe etc.

Why is that important ?

Well...it would give a better impression to the newbies you see when they see a lot of folk doing something useful , it might motivate them a bit more.

Also it is not fair to the forum members to let them do all the work, it is in a way disgraceful , that s my opinion.

Thank god we haven t reached those political correct levels here yet that we cant even speak THAT outyippie yippie...

Now they all hide and we do not know who s doing what you see it is kind of annoying

Also registering is free, you can use a fantasy name , like Dragon Queen or something or Daisy girl

whatever and you can use some vague email address from GMX.com created in three minutes so you can stay fully anonymous

if you really want to stay anonymous one can use a VPN service so your IP is hidden oh ...that s a good tip.

Not just for the forum but in general as even your provider cannot see what you do or where you go to etc etc.

Cyberghost has free vpn client and service that disconnects after half an hour being online.

I used that a lot than I bought a subscription for a year and I am cool now

It was an offer instead of 50 bucks they said for 29 you get one year full privacy so..voila.

Done.

It does not disconnect after half an hour and you can also download torrents , like a movie or music , anonymously.

Not that we EVER do that as that would be illegal and we never do illegal things ...

In other words not registering because you fear privacy issues is a joke.

We know more and more folk are doing the good work with the free method but it would be nice if you could give us a little hand here.

Become member and post things of yourself , your own experiences and they dont have to be correct, politically..

Dont worry , we won't bite you

New thoughts

by josh on Sat Sep 04, 2010 10:14 am

Here are new thoughts concerning the way we think and built our devices of beauty/joy/laughter/selflessness/peace...etc: It is our feelings to desire the undoing of many nefarious things around us, and as we are making this device or this one we are limiting our selves to an area of affect; two miles, four miles, twenty miles... A good way to stretch our thinking is to try to build something that will affect all the way around the world, when we do that, and challenge our intellect to come up with a way, we are changing gear, this make us look at things that we never thought of before. It is as if we practice throwing a stone at twenty feet; we will never know our true capacity until we practice to throw that stone two hundred feet, we likely never will throw that rock two hundred feet, but we sure will, in the process, go much further then twenty. Make sense? Josh

Ok Josh ...OUT WITH IT.....me think you hatching BIG plan..... How big?

You've played the cards a winner so far..broadcasting, plaster and my favourite, the life pillow.And now ?.....ready to play....just love experimenting ! Or are you talking about a specific intent.

Re: New thoughts

by josh on Sun Sep 05, 2010 6:51 pm

OK, yes there is more, I really really desire for all of us to use our gray much in a audacious/expensive/never done before ways. I always challenge my self to see "whats next" how can I make this work stronger, further.... So let us look at everything we all have done so far:

We have created A new kind of Orgonite; (Plasterite), It broadcast thousands of miles, the large cone from Stephen, myself, Tony, Anna, Steve and the rest of the crew are broadcasting all the way pass the moon

Also with these we are pegging the Bovis scale, and it vibrates in all dimensions We as well know that we can make the Plasterite very simply, very powerful without the use of crystals, sand works well We can do this most cheaply: a fraction of the cost of resin, and the kids really, really do love it (yesterday, a 2 year old, in the dark went on some shelves at a friend' s house and got out of the room the arms filled with little plasterites hearts, lots of them LOL) Then we have wrapped those cones with extension cords and broadcasted the Plasterite energy all over the grid

Some of us even wrapped the Pillows with it, polarizing all the grid to spin in the right direction Here is another thing we have found, as Catherine paint the Plasterite, many colors or single colors, the energies appears to go way way up, I am nor sure why but I think it is the resonance of the colors in the inner structure of the plaster

And yet it seems that the nefarious energies are still there and very active

So more Plasterite and more painting and more.....

Yes would love to pull that rug myself. Amount the things to sparkle some interest in new things is radionics, there are much possibilities there, see if you can find a practitioner; he or she will give you much valid infozzz

by monsoon gecko on Sat Sep 25, 2010 12:56 am

G,day all...some time ago, I discovered I could help person in hospital on other side of Australia, using techniques of Sukyo Mahikari,. Projecting hi no ki energy...friend made remarkable recovery , surprising doctors and family. Later when involved in Bio-dynamic agriculture, I read about a radionics device for broadcasting the bio-dynamic preparations to the soil.....it was developed by Hugh Loyal , who escaped to Australia...I nearly made one with my Phd mate but it didn't eventuate . The radioncs device is called a Cosmic Pipe. I contacted Josh to quiz him on a plasterite radionics device..He suggested flat shapes that could be stacked up to 9 high. With appropriate script/thought, between each layer, to be broadcasted radionically. Josh, if you could expand idea, please ? So I found some pot plant trays, 12 inches round by almost 2 inches high. Made 9 over two days...Used sand , salt, a big handfull of shells in each, some nag champa and of course Pillowed water. Each piece had 3 small quartz points in equilateral triangle mid distance in circle. 1.5 x 20 kilo bags. Had drying outside for 3 days...looks like I,m going into paver business Ha Rain storm forced inside so I stacked...Whoosh...energy big time..looked like the pieces needed to have something in between them...apart from script which still isn't happening...My mate came round and sat there glowing...ha ha ..he reckoned it may work better with airspace between each layer , which instantly struck a chord...so will have to find some small blocks. As is..just drying pieces stacked , I can feel whole side of my body glowing, about 1 to 2 m away. Will continue to play...Josh..why 9 ? can use more ? Thought about topping with cone.....Yo monsoon gecko

by josh on Sat Sep 25, 2010 6:43 am

After 9 you get into the diminishing return: no more with more , But here is what you can do; (at least I have done that with the writing) take the unit of nine pieces and counted as one, then you make 8 more units.....paving hey!!! Josh

by josh on Sat Sep 25, 2010

This will give you 81 pieces, now you will really think you are in the paving business , actually you will be in the flying business, it may be hard to keep your self on the ground with these Simplicity; high tech magic You can try also with 9 leaves of any tree, and then layer 9 more..etc..ask the tree first We are going somewhere Let us not forget, the higher your ethics, the more powerful your pieces Josh

by monsoon gecko on Sun Sep 26, 2010

Yeah. it's do able, with effort and time...factory mode, but I reckon I'd hit the ceiling by the 6th lot ,, ha ha Might do a couple more lots to experiment....eventually. Also, I,m assuming that despite the energy output, plaster is still diamagnetic....like limestone, Anyone know? So I'm wondering how a paramagnetic disk alternating would help and what to make it from...I mean I have the highly paramagnetic rock chips available....maybe thin disk set in resin, concrete , plaster? All the ancient cultures from standing stone, pyramids , temples , towers and cathedrals etc use this energy generated by use of paramagnetic and diamagnetic stone.... but for specifics and how to I have no clue. Just speculating...anyone got any thoughts ?

I will share with you what I feel and believe deeply, it is a bit off the common path but that is the way it is , I believe with all my being that all is alive with a large degree of consciousness and has the right to ask for the greatest degree of respect, and as I walk among the trees, the grass, the clouds, the winged people, the four legged, the creepy crawlies I have no problem what ever to behave toward them as if they were my close relatives, because they are, they are my relations, the grand fathers the rocks, the water, the air, the earth I walk on, all of them are wonderful friends of mine, and I do not want it any other way.

You will do what you must Sunflower. I'm old fashioned and like stability, to know where I stand. Have so enjoyed this Irish 'ride" the last year and am happy to keep reporting what's going on for whatever audience, for me the wider the better and even posterity cf. the archives from 2010 which are so very valuable and inspiring.

We can't help if there are people working quietly away in the background, can't force them to blog but hopefully random people finding this site will get a spark.

Feeling good about a great gifting run last evening with two great guys, Fintan and Alistair, awake and aware, all of us on the same mission.

We headed up this mountain to gift an array of 8 huge masts. Unfortunately our first attempt was thwarted by a landowner 'hillbilly' as F described him who wouldn't have minded shooting us if we kept going.

We judiciously retreated after he kindly informed us of a route around the other side of the mountain. Wish I could remember some of his choice language but became a bit flustered when my charm had no effect on him

So, eventually arrived at our destination, getting quite dusky by then, left a LOT of Plasterite under the masts and the guys also gifted the three huge rocks which gives the hill its name.

Stunning views of the Wicklow Mountains, Dublin Bay and the City as the darkness fell

Re: THE IRISH TOPIC

We walked back down to the car by then quite dark, left some nice requests of Selenite to kick ass and hope for great results over the city, country and even the world.

Alistair knew that the masts all link up, RTE (broadcasting) Google and cant remember another one.

Then F and I stopped in the City centre and dropped kilos of filled bottles along the length of the Liffey, also into the sea, deep water over a bridge.

Finally into his local park and we enjoyed throwing pieces high up into a huge dead treestump which had been beautifully carved with fish and animals.

Very late home but very worthwhile.

PS Really like the way the Edit and other buttons are easy to see.

Re: THE IRISH TOPIC

Oh I know where you stand, I think by now we all got the scars to prove where we stand.

Again, I dont mind, really, I do , we do what we do.

So be it, but you know what it being addressed here.

thank you for all the pictures and the stories, appreciated.

Maybe we have to just carry on , business as usual.

Re: THE IRISH TOPIC

overbearing weight of their own accumulated opinions.

This book is basically my attempt to get on the ladder be-everyone else. Designed to act as a survival guide for any living in or visiting the country, over the course of these chters I will attempt to unmask the real Ireland. What is the t-essence of this mysterious mist-green land with its majes-undulating landscape so battered by harsh winds and the an-seas that spit and fizz and churn? Is there anything to be sabout this little island – with its jagged, teddy-bear outli-which lurks guiltily to the western edge of Europe as if it w-illegally parked – that hasn't already been summed up neatly TV adverts for rashers? And what of the creatures who l-here? What can we say about the tribes that have formed athe lives that they lead? Can the Irish be defined as the slicupwardly mobile, high-death? Is it possible that there is a third, or even a fourth, category of Irish person? Also why, for instance, are we still known as 'the land of saints and scholars' when recent history would suggest we are primarily made up of below-average accountants and people who are handy with the greyhounds?

Irishness means more than merely holding a passport with a harp on it. It has an international resonance, enjoyed annually by millions the world over as they strap on fake red beards and parade themselves silly in novelty leprechaun hats before proudly raising a pint glass to our patron saint, ~~Arthur~~ Patrick. Some say you can hear Irishness in the lonesome lilt of the uilleann pipes. That you can smell it on the farts of a billion Guinness drinkers. Look hard enough and they say you can see it winking back at you from the oily thighs of Michael Flatley.

tions, particularly those too talented to stay around the place. What can we say about the scattered millions of the diaspora? Are we happy to leave them to rot away in the bedsits of London or at the all-night beach orgies of Bondi? Or are we right to harness their global influence and their creative energy by bringing them back home and shaking them down for cash, like we did a few years back during The Gathering?

Over the following chapters I will attempt to answer at least some of these questions without getting too distracted by Facebook.

Surviving Ireland is designed as a handbook to modern Irish life and although primarily aimed at an Irish-born audience, I hope it will also be read and enjoyed by people the world over, including the following:

- Recently sworn-in Irish citizens
- Visiting tourists
- Richard and I

million known and planets, bouncing off asteroids, narrowly avoiding comets before they eventually reach the atmosphere above Ireland, where they bounce off the clouds and back up into space.

However, on those rare occasions when the sun makes it through, everything changes on the ground. One warm summer's day can lift the mood of the nation, putting a spring in our steps, a glint in our eyes and an ice cream in our hand. Indeed there's probably no sight happier than a fat little farmer emerging from a petrol station with a 99. This, to me, is the first sign of summer.

But the Irish mindset is complex. Even after only a few hours of sunshine, we begin to catastrophize about how it might all go pear-shaped. We have flashbacks to November gales and January floods. The fear sets in. Some people even start willing it to pour down, nervously announcing, 'We could do with a drop of rain' as if they were afraid of the sun.

Pat, 56, Pig Farmer, Monaghan

Like many Irish farmers, Pat has had to diversify his income streams over recent years and he has really embraced tech to do this. Although his first love is still names his cows and cried for ten minutes sending Scarlett Johansson to the slaughterhouse, he has also launched a number of quirky, innovative ventures. These include IrishAir.org, where he sells freshly captured pig-farm air on the Internet, and a website for Irish expats and culchies exiled in Dublin. Frustrated by the lack of rural broadband, Pat went ahead and secured 10Mbps of bandwidth on the Astra satellite last October, becoming the first Irish pig farmer to become a significant player in the Russian telecoms market.

Pat is today buying a Farmer's Journal and a

because of a deep fear of going back to Nigeria. Jonathan is a taxi driver in Dublin, having spent two years previously working for tips in the downstairs toilet of a hip Dublin late bar. Here he mostly dealt with drunken Celtic Tiger monsters repeatedly asking 'Where are you from in Africa?' before saying something complimentary about the intelligent play of Didier Drogba. He eventually saved up enough money to go into business ferrying the same vomiting idiots around the city every weekend. Pretty miraculously, after all that, Jonathan still quite likes Irish people.

crisis, where the architectural equivalent of an outside toilet will still sell for north of five hundred thousand euro. Unfortunately, this problem isn't going away. The population of Ireland is amassing on the east coast at such a worrying rate that some experts believe the entire country could become lopsided and flip over sideways on to Wales by the year 2050. This could be catastrophic for Anglo-Irish relations, not to mention the car-ferry industry. At this stage, town planners are pinning all their hopes on the possibility that broadband technology develops to such a degree that future Dubs could be uploaded to the cloud and that the homeless might simply be deleted altogether.

THE BASIC SUBTEXT to all these national crises is as follows. On one side, country people think Dublin people are patronizing them somehow and causing them a great slight. On the other side, the D4 chattering classes can't help sneering at the great unwashed beyond the M50.

Let me give you a few examples.

In 2014, 'Garthgate' rocked Ireland to its very core when the singer Garth Brooks was refused planning permission to play five nights in a row in Croke Park, unfortunately after the tickets had already sold out.

The media went bananas. Grown men were found crying in the streets. Forlorn women from rural Limerick marched on the Dáil, threatening to set their Stetsons on fire. Guilty grandparents tried to explain to grandchildren why Mammy and Daddy had set a giant wicker effigy of Owen Keegan, chief executive of Dublin City Council, on fire on the back lawn. Liveline went into the stratosphere, creating a visible vortex of outrage over Ireland.

After the Estonians, the Austrians and the French (who have a blood-alcohol limit that it is illegal to be under), we are, per capita, up there with the best of them in the field of alcoholic self-abuse. If you stick your head out the window on any given Sunday morning, you can hear the phrase 'I'm never drinking again' roll across the hills like birdsong.

We have a bit of a problem.

In France, they'll slowly sip wine with their breakfast, brunch, lunch, dinner and supper. In Ireland, when it's time to drink, we commit to it entirely. A meal is seen as a waste of good drinking time, an inconvenience to be overcome in the quest for oblivion. Often this 'meal' will be timetabled for later in the evening, when your face is quite possibly on the wrong side of your head and it will inevitably consist of random deep-fried objects carpet-bombed in curry.

It's boom and bust. We fast. We binge. We have the horrors. We repent. We do it all over again. We will often forgo drinking

Not only did you have to pack blankets, food supplies and water; frankly, it was advisable to leave a will before you left.

There were good reasons for all this. Firstly, every other driver on the road, including you, was most likely drunk, especially the guards. Agnes Coughlan reads the minutes from the last meeting. The minutes are quickly approved as read by MP who also stresses he has a golf classic at 1 p.m.

III Open issues

a) On recent Air Accident Investigation Unit report 426EF-NinerNinerDelta

Podge Sullivan makes suggestion to discuss the recent complaint against AA pilots for turning off engines and gliding planes into Dublin to save money on fuel, in contravention of current regulations. MP makes wanking gesture. (Laughter) MP says that the stupid fers should get their nose out of our business, the amount of fuel we fing save during those descents is the only

b) Pilots' union issues

PS notes useful segue to issue of pilots' unions. MP makes another wanking gesture. (Laughter) PS notes unions have again brought up issue of breach in European working directives vis-à-vis AA pilots. MP says 'When did we ever recognize fing unions? It's pricks like those kept this country in the shithouse for decades.' MP then addresses head of creative and asks if 'anything can be done on the pilot problem'. Kimberly Wingspan says she has been looking at issue of getting rid of pilots completely. PS interrupts saying no way regulations will allow for cabin crew to fly planes. KW interrupts to say she has market research to show that, in the future, passengers could be convinced to fly planes themselves in exchange for e.g. a lifetime of reduced fares, free alcohol in bags. MP suggests we should blue-sky this more at next meeting. H winks at KW, says he 'likes the cut of her jib' etc.

IV New business

a) Cost-cutting

4/ Cost cutting

MP brings up issues of further cost-cutting. 'Is there further we can cut, lads?' PS says we may be looking at d returns and bad press if we proceed with plan to charge late check-in. Also says Health & Safety has pooh-pooh 'catacomb' idea to stack passengers in columns to room in the cabin. MP makes wanking gesture. (Laughter for immediate brainstorming session. More doughnuts v PS comes up with notion that ALL future European flights landed at one hub, e.g. Amsterdam, and passengers on their way from there to individual destinations. MP likes says it's a bit pedestrian. MP suddenly puts question looks at MP like he's got more than one head. KW surmises people might pay a small charge NOT to go on holidays this and calls her 'a fing genius'. Asks her to comp at next meeting re. no-fares concept.

V Any other business to become a tiny bit disillusioned with the process. Many even resort to making horrifying statements like 'They should let Michael O'Leary run the country'.

How on earth did we get here?

Stroke Politics

In a stroke, poor bloodflow to the brain causes one side of the body politic to become completely paralysed as the victim's moral compass splits violently in two, one side retaining the truth concerning any situation, while the other side completely ignores that in pursuit of a 'higher good', e.g. having works done on one of your holiday homes in return for a speedy passport application. Strokes have been the lifeblood of Irish politics for many years and the tradition continues ever still.

There will be another three or four hundred guests invited to the afters, so as to completely eliminate any risk of offence. These events are designed to make the optimum amount of cash for the absolute least amount of effort.

The day will generally progress as follows:

9 a.m. Wedding Mass, conducted by the local priest. The highlight of the Mass is the slightly risqué joke from the priest about how drunk he'll be at the reception later.

10.15 a.m. The Mass has ended, it is time to go and serve the Lord. You begin to feel as if you are serving the Lord quite quickly in fact, standing for two hours straight in the church surrounded by the headstones of

This carpet has had the sweat of ten thousand drunk uncles repeatedly hokey poked into it since the early 1950s and would actually cause a dangerous explosion if set alight due to friction caused by e.g. excessive rowing during 'Rock The Boat'. Because of all this, these places generally smell like your insides and the manager could badly do with a bit of help from the Brennan Brothers.

6.30 p.m. Father of the bride speaks. This speech will start in a hideously uncomfortable manner as everyone tries to discern whether he has had a stroke, is currently having a stroke or is actually making a speech. Around twenty minutes in, the speech settles into a rhythm by which time 34 per cent of the audience is beginning to nod off. The mother of the bride will generally say nothing, lost as she is inside that elaborate fascinator that rises high up into the function room, like some man-made rainforest microclimate at the Botanic Gardens.

7.30 p.m. Father of the groom speaks. After an introduction involving a series of guttural stops and what could have been a bowel movement, he settles suddenly back into his seat to bemused silence. But he doesn't really care, seeing as he's not paying for any of this.

Re: THE IRISH TOPIC

Hi Jenny!

LMAO!!!! He just can't sit still, can he!?!? He has created some expectations and when they are not met, he gets frustrated, IMHO. I say, keep it OPEN. Do NOT expect heavy participation or even daily postings, there just isn't THAT much to share each day.

We are in this for the long haul, and as such, we should look forward to being the torch bearers, for this and future generations of Plasterite builders. My guess is the majority of US who are already building, or involved, are quietly doing there thing, and don't need to or wish to publicly share..... which should be OK, to any of us, just allowing "this" to be what it is. I love EK, and all that he does. He has so much passion, and a fair bit of rage, and they push him, ever forward, possibly far faster than the rest of us. My prayer is simply that anyone who awakens to the truer reality of our lives, will have the forum and site, to come to, and to learn, and hopefully, get motivated. But we can't expect that or anything else, we just have to keep doing our thing and let other's do theirs....

Keep it OPEN, EK, and just know you have one very happy Shaman in Heaven, applauding and loving you, for all you do!

Re: THE IRISH TOPIC

OK OK

message understood

loud and clear

But we are all on this journey here, each of us in their own particular fashion and level of awareness and yes, maybe that was some deep dive but also maybe we should realize other options like mentioned above just allowing "this" to be what it is.

Because , and to a certain extent I speak for all of us, we would love to see more of it but somehow we know it is being used , being looked in, etc in a lot of places we all love to push things , good things, but somehow we know that is not always how it works as people need different time frames and life experiences to comprehend it all or use it more effectively and so forth and somehow we are , at least I am, way too impatient to wait for all of that

It stands to reason that they are hammering some people who wake up and don't fall for the cons out there, like most, get hammered a bit harder, that's obvious.

Especially if you are not having a sort of team around you like Jenn and some others have it can become rather challenging at times as "forces" out there want to push us back to base position again.

Nipping this and basically all other forms of healing, freedom, individuality, you name it, in the butt.

Also posted Jacques methods on Curezone, big american site, Steve is sometimes there, already has had thousands of visitors so yes, things are moving on and maybe we have to accept that most folk who are into this are not such amazing communicators or don't see the reason to do so. Not in a public arena.

And maybe that is OK

Maybe that is just the way it is.

anyway thanks for the boost

Following the Spiral UP!

Posted on June 30, 2011

Aho! Mitakuye oyasin!

When I first learned about “Lightworkers” and the “Light” some years ago, one of the many different things I was taught was regarding what is called the Spiral. The Spiral represents you and your life path. You can think of it with an easy analogy: imagine that your entire life is based on a stairwell, and you are constantly taking steps “up” to reach the next “level”.

What does this really mean?

We all have a life path. Our souls, prior to embodying in flesh, come here with a plan for our incarnation in body. That plan could be one that has to do with what some call “Karma”, in that we come back to play out different roles or scenarios with other souls, scenarios that we have agreed upon that will “release” previous “Karma” we have created with them. The plan can also have many obstacles and tests for us as well. Why? Often we experience the greatest “growth” from tribulation or trials, when we move beyond our own inherent limitations of what we believe we are capable of doing.

Fun, huh?

Knowing this, you can see the world and all of the social interactions and relationships with an entirely new filter of perception.

“That motherf*cker just PISSSED ME OFF!”

Really? Oh my!

That motherf*cker MAY have just done you a huge favor!

Self awareness is one of the most important keys to following a path of enlightenment. You may “think” you really know yourself inside and out, but guess what, you are most likely fooling yourself! That is where our friends, family, and yes, even perfect “strangers” come into our lives.

One term that is used by many circles is called “mirroring”. Meaning, someone can suddenly appear in your life, or your path, and they will set you off like no one else has ever done. They punch your buttons.

Hard. The gift in this, when you come to realize it, is they are being a mirror for you to see something hidden within yourself that needs some attention. Attention in this case equals, first, recognition.

Why am I angry? Was I disrespected? Insulted?? Accused of something I NEVER do??

The reasons can be many, but the important thing is to follow the thread home. Is there a part of me that is insecure in some way? Is there a part of me that is overly sensitive to critical remarks or even loving but on spot appraisals? What in me, is reacting this way, and why?

Ah, now we are getting somewhere!

A challenge for most of us is being completely honest about.... US! We have, since the time our personalities started to develop, a very rigid self image of who we are, but in truth, we are often very wrong about how we perceive ourselves.

Ego.

Yep, I said it.

EGO!

Ego is NOT our enemy. However, and I say this with a small smile upon my face, ego IS one of the greatest teachers for us, and bye golly, it's even built in! Our ego likes to think it IS us, but in truth, ego is only a small part of our overall being. Many of the teachers and followers of Eastern religions would have you banish the ego, chain it up and lock it away, as either a distraction or the ENEMY. And yet, our ego is important.

Eckhart Tolle is one of our modern day teachers that talks about how our ego is linked to our emotional and mental bodies. Ego goes south, you likely have a very emotional response too. Then the mental aspect kicks in to evaluate things.

Emotional response: "Well f*ck you!" Mental follow-up: "Should I have just said that to my boss?"

Emotional response: "He was a SOB!" Mental follow-up: "Oh my God, what did I just do?"

Do you see the dichotomy in play here?

So we come back full circle to the Spiral. We are on that stairwell, and we are taking one step at a time, when we suddenly find an "obstacle" in our way, so we stand still. That obstacle can be another who has suddenly made us face something unexpected or unfamiliar. Now what?

Ah. Now you either deal with this, or you don't move forward, or up! Suddenly feeling trapped? No way out?

This is where the true growth occurs. Have you heard that infamous quote that goes something like this:

“How do you expect to get different results by doing the same things?”

It’s time to step back and look at this again. What can I do different? IS there another way? Do I need to, gasp, change?

These can be hard questions. The answers might surprise you!

Most of us don’t like tests, some of us loathe them. But life is and always will be a series of tests, once you chose to consciously move up that Spiral. You have to “earn” your advancement, much like anything else that is considered an improvement. There are endless levels that await you, the Spiral goes up and up and up.

No Spiritual Master that is still embodied in flesh has completed these lessons and climbed to the top. There is always more to learn, and more importantly, to unlearn.

Aho!

The Body of Man

Posted by Shaman Tony Geron

Aho! Mitakuye Oyasin!

A very warm greetings to you, gentle reader!

Our lives are intermingled beyond what most recognize or embrace. Some years ago I was fortunate to be introduced to an individual locally, that ran a group every week for instruction in meditation and expanding our inner Light. Barbara is an immense being of Light, an Angel in flesh, and I shared five years with that group, and the blessings from that experience continue to bless me to this day.

Aho!

One of the many things shared during my time with that group, was the concept of the Body of Man. As it was explained, the Body of Man was a very real “entity”, one that existed as an amalgamation of our individual parts, on a higher level or dimension.

I should side step here briefly to talk about this connection to higher levels or dimensions, and how they relates to us all as individuals.

In using my Vision, often called up in doing shared healing Medicine with others, I see “us” as a glowing ball of pure Light. It is both awesome and magnificent. I humbly bow, and then “merge” my Light with that Brother or Sister.

Before doing such shared Medicine, it is important to honor your own Light and it’s integrity.

Meaning, you cleanse and protect yourself!

This can be done through ritual or prayer, intention or magic. Bringing in the purest White Light will cleanse your auric fields and energy bodies. Asking that this Light fill your physical body, like it is pure liquid White Light, and seeing it as filling you up, from bottom to top, gets easy with practice. I envision this liquid being poured into my Crown, and it travelling straight down both legs to my feet, and starting from there, it slowly fills up my entire body, and as it does, it infuses every cell with Life, over writing any current manifestation of anything less than perfection.

As I see us, being these balls of Light, or Energy, the next delineation would be: Is this all that we are?

No.

We are multi-dimensional beings. In esoteric circles, there is a term about us each having something called a Life Cord, or our Silver Cord. This Cord, connects from our physical 3D body, to our “higher” dimensional bodies and eventually Higher Self, or Mighty I AM Presence. Our Greater Soul.

In a model where we have dimensions going from One to Seven, there exists a “body” or part of us, that is living and experiencing a separate reality, yet joined to us through this Cord. At the highest level, we are pure Light, and this is comprised of our Being filled with the purest Love. We have moved through the lessons of every level, and evolved into pure Light, conscious, and yes, connection.

The Body of Man is One.

We are all connected, in that we are all like cells in this Body. As individuals, our functions are diverse and complex, and yet mesh together cohesively in our Body. Our Group Soul is this Body of Man. That is the bigger level above our existence as individuals, a return first to our Group. That Group is of course a part of a larger Group.

Smile.

Creation is infinite. The Creator made our Creation, and it is “alive” and growing, changing, expanding. As part of this Creation, “it” now becoming the Creator, it Created... us.

We in turn, as we move up the Spiral, merge and become.... a Creator. And we Create, our own group Creation.

Ah.

So the levels of connection are invisible to most, and yet evident always.

A young child cries suddenly with pain, somewhere in a crowded restaurant, note your reaction or that of others. It is a Universal reaction of alarm for our young. We literally create our offspring in this 3D existence, and as such, we practice the paradigm of being active and conscious Creators.

And yet we don't always connect the dots, and see the bigger picture of how we create our very own lives, the very experiences that we enjoy or suffer through, as part of our "function" in the greater experience of the Body of Man.

The Body of Man is growing!

Like any child, curiosity and ill intended self harm often goes hand in hand. Those first few steps of walking and running have resulted in many a bruise or knock to the head! We always get up and master it regardless, often more determined, especially to not re-experience any negative effects.

The true Love and outpouring of sorrow, grief, compassion, forgiveness and acceptance that comes from our individual Souls is evident throughout our World. What is presented by commercial media outlets usually is focused on the negative and fear provoking horrors. What is often never glamorized or revealed in such channels is the consistent and very commonly good traits that we do embody and show towards one another.

We have inspiring individuals that shine perhaps a little brighter in their roles of this Cosmic Play, that march to the beat of a different drummer, some might say, and yet blaze a new way for us to contemplate. We have darker expressions of passion and intrigue at play, control and subjugation. Slavery and victims of never ending war theaters.

If you were to ask every single human on this planet, is this what you desire, what might be their individual answer, do you suppose?

Do we as a group, have a wish to war upon each other?

The Body of Man does not desire to experience war within itself!

Do we as a group, wish to be sick, ill or malnourished?

The Body of Man does not desire to experience sickness within itself.

When we stop and change our perception of ourselves and our world, the intertwined connections are everywhere.

When we look at our Indigenous People or Tribes, we see a part of the Body of Man that has remained true to the Group Soul's purpose: to live as one with the Earth.

These various tribes and clans around the world refused to "advance" with the majority, staying both pristine in their intentions and having a far different life experience from the rest of us. Note how many who awaken from their personal conscious slumber, will look to these people and their teachings with renewed respect and admiration.

One example is our own Native Americans, and what they call The Red Road. The teaching of the Red Road are ten thousand years old and older. Some claim them to be over one hundred thousand years old.

Look at some of the other aboriginal peoples and their "special" gifts. The Dream Time of the Australian natives is but one example. There are other tribes living in the Amazon that have a deeply rooted connection to Mother Earth and some of their gifts defy categorizing.

You will see that those who truly embrace their connection to the Earth, all life upon it, even the life contained in our oceans and seas, are quantum years ahead of those who have been "civilized".

Civilization brought not only new discoveries and changes to our world, it also destroyed the vestiges of our ancient heritage, mocking and abandoning the very teachings and practices that would set us free of the many traps inherent in our cultures today.

With my special Vision, should I peer up at our Body of Man, what do you suppose I would see?

Why, a huge ball of Light!

Smile.

Why, for those existing on a lower dimension or level from us, we would seem to be like the Sun, this immense ball of Light and Power.

Recently, a writer that posted on a blog about Satanism, crowed about the fact that we will never be allowed to reach ten billion people living on Mother Earth, a figure believed in those circles to indicate the threshold for the Body of Man to become fully "alive and integrated" with Mother Earth.

I laughed upon reading such, for a very good reason. It's called the Hundredth Monkey Effect. Not every cell in our body is a brain cell, yes? Not every cell is delegated or relegated to be the eyes, ears or nose of our body. Each cell performs it's own very special function.

The Body of Man is about to AWAKEN!

We are so, so close, right now, this very moment, as I type these words. Humanity is awakening, and recognizing our connection with each other, and to something greater than us.

And something much more sobering as well.

That which would have us cause harm to the Body of Man, is now seen and recognized as foreign, an intruder, a saboteur, only to cause mischief and misery. Our “antibodies” see them too, and soon, our Body will reject them, swiftly and completely, for they are not a part of us, either to be ridden of or destroyed.

The Body of Man is becoming Self Aware!

And the days, weeks, months, and years of sorrow, will soon come to an end!

The Trail of Tears has been avowed and declared now null and void.

Soon, we step forward in Unity, and leave behind the shattered lies of failure and hardship, the bastion of Freedom defining a new standard, the Tribe of Earth, now One.

Aho!

Close To The Edge

by Shaman Tony Geron

Aho! Mitakuye oyasin!

(Lakota greeting meaning “all my relatives” or “we are all related”)

“Down at the end, round by the corner
Close to the edge, just by a river
Seasons will pass you by
I get up, I get down
Now that it’s all over and done
Now that you find, now that you’re whole”

From the music group Yes, Close to the Edge.

In many of the Lodges that I offer, I often find myself simply sitting before my computer screen and wondering just exactly might come next.

It’s a synergy of being completely open to Source and allowing my smaller self or Ego, to step aside and allow communication to spring forth in whatever form it may wish.

As I pondered my computer screen just moments ago, I heard the song start playing in my head, and had to stop a moment to ponder just what it might mean or where it may be leading me for today’s Lodge.

In our Multiverse, there are defined and powerful systems set into place that help to keep all of “this”, sorted and held into place. Virtual markers of sorts, that create the known and unknown boundaries between our perceived realities.

As an example, there are a tremendous amount of quasi scientific truths that pepper our field of perceptions, and they all have different names and definitions. We have such technologies such as what Royal Raymond Rife introduced some years ago, and it’s ground breaking concepts are still in use today. For those unfamiliar with Rife technology, the thought is that for every malady or illness, disease or infection, the underlying bug, virus, bacteria or condition, has a vibrational signature. A footprint of sorts. Rife was able to determine, for instance, that salmonella, a nasty bacterial infection, could be destroyed by subjecting the bacteria to a frequency or vibration to weaken or destroy the pathogens by energetically exciting destructive resonances in their constituent chemicals.

According to radionics practitioners, a healthy person will have certain energy frequencies moving through their body that define health, while an unhealthy person will exhibit other, different energy frequencies that define disorders. Radionic devices purport to diagnose and heal by applying appropriate frequencies to balance the discordant frequencies of sickness. Radionics uses “frequency” not in its standard meaning but to describe an imputed energy type, which does not correspond to any property of energy in the scientific sense.[4]

In one form of radionics popularised by Abrams, some blood on a bit of filter paper is attached to a device Abrams called a dynamizer, which is attached by wires to a string of other devices and then to the forehead of a healthy volunteer, facing west in a dim light. By tapping on his abdomen and searching for areas of “dullness”, disease in the donor of the blood is diagnosed by proxy. Handwriting analysis is also used to diagnose disease under this scheme.[3]

Having done this, the practitioner may use a special device known as an oscilloclast or any of a range of other devices to broadcast vibrations at the patient in order to attempt to heal them.[3]

Albert Abrams claimed to detect such frequencies and/or cure people by matching their frequencies, and claimed them sensitive enough that he could tell someone’s religion by looking at a drop of blood.[3] He developed thirteen devices and became a millionaire leasing his devices,[3][5] and the American Medical Association described him as the “dean of gadget quacks,”[5] and his devices were definitively proven useless by an independent investigation commissioned by Scientific American in 1924.[6]

Here is the link for the above explanation: <http://en.wikipedia.org/wiki/Radionics>

What you might see just from the two examples I have given, is the similarity in seeing both our bodies and the diseases that we are challenged with from a view point of frequencies.

Ah, now we are getting somewhere!

AHO!

Did you know there is a belief and a common usage by some folks, that you can create ANY medicine for any condition or disease, with a pen, a glass, and some water?

What say you Spirit Walker!?!

GASP

It points back to what I just shared, and also some of what I have shared in previous Lodges.

“In the beginning was the Word, and the Word was with God, and the Word was God.”

In our Multiverse, everything has a number and a vibration or frequency. Everything.

These numbers, or codes, define Creation.

So in principal, we have a clear glass filled with water. We write down on a small piece of paper a WORD, and we tape this to our glass of water. Or, we can just as easily write that WORD on the glass itself with a marker.

Dr. Emoto, a visionary researcher from Japan, has been studying water for years now, and published many amazing and wonderful studies showing how this works. If you write LOVE on your glass of water, a sample taken of that water, froze, then studies under a powerful microscope, shows the water structure, and it is Divinity in form itself. Now write instead HATE, and the water structure looks horrible, malformed and sickly.

How can this be?

Ah, because you gave the water instructions, in written form, to BE something beyond simple water. You told it to embody and vibrate to the frequency of either LOVE or HATE.

Are we getting closer now?

You can write down, for instance, ANTIVENOM, and keep it handy if you were ever to cross paths with a venomous snake and get an unwanted venom injection.

You can write down the name of any pharmaceutical substance, even plain old asprin, and the water will be infused with the vibration of that WORD, and will restructure itself to carry that vibration.

Why is this important?

It's another huge clue for all of us, helping us to find and recognize some very evident truths that surround us all.

In my last Lodge, I shared some very special things that happened in my journey towards becoming a Shaman.

With all the love and utmost respect, I will share one last thing that my mentor shared with me one day in the not so distant past.

"My boy, you have seen now, and experienced, the Truth of our World. You have seen and felt, our connection to the Mother, and all of her Creations. You KNOW that everything you see around us, is alive and conscious. Everything! Let me share one very big secret that I have never told anyone else. Better yet, let me demonstrate to you the most powerful Medicine that I know, and I am so honored to hold this knowledge, for it is Sacred."

At this point, Shaman Jacques got up from the little table that we sat at on his deck, and slowly walked over to a Dandelion weed in his yard. He bent down, and appeared to be whispering to the plant, and with great delicacy, he pinched off the tiny yellow flower head, and brought it over to me.

“My boy, I have a gift for you, please accept it.” He handed the yellow Dandelion flower to me and asked me to first smell it.

I did and jumped in surprise!

It was MINT!!!!

It totally smelled like the most fragrant mint I had ever sensed. The smile on his face, watching me, was hilarious.

“Now my boy, EAT IT!”

Uh..... OK!

And Great Spirit, it tasted like MINT!!!!!!!!!!!!!!!!!!!!!!!!!!!!

YEP!

Looking at Jacques, I had a thousand questions running through my head, but could hardly get my mouth open to ask.

He laughed, with delight, and leaned over to me and said....

“You now know the greatest secret in our Universe. My boy, when I knelt down to that flower, I did three things. I told the flower that I SEE YOU. I gave it recognition of BEING alive. I told it I love you. I gave it respect and honor for BEING alive. And finally, I humbly asked it to become MINT, for my need was great, and knew it would help if I asked.”

I sat there with a my face rapidly going from a goofy smile to a very daft look.

No shit!

No shit.

“Down at the end, round by the corner
Close to the edge, just by a river

Seasons will pass you by
I get up, I get down
Now that it's all over and done
Now that you find, now that you're whole"

Now that YOU find, now that YOU'RE whole.....

AHO!!!!!!!!!!!!!!!!!!!!!!

Re: THE IRISH TOPIC

ah well it s all ok

sometimes our energy runs low and let s face it , it can be overwhelming realizing what we are up against an ancient monolith

it can wear one down and balance cannot always be easily maintained

but we survived and came out stronger

sometimes we have to let the black wolf do its biting

to get it over with to balance again

otherwise it will eat you up

but lessons learned, next time when something comes up things will be handled more smoothly

it is not that is is not truth

but truth can show itself in many forms

Tá daoine a shiúlann inár saolta agus shiúlann amach astu go luath...

Some people come into our lives and quickly go...

Tá daoine a fhanann ar feadh tamaill...

Some people stay awhile...

Agus fágann siad rianta a gcos ar ár gcroíthe...

And leave footprints on our hearts...

Agus casann ár n-anamacha port nua go deo deo.

And we are never, ever the same

I'm wondering if you guys have tried putting water in your CB pipes to draw more rain. I just tried it two days ago and it seems our forecast for getting rain here in Vegas has doubled from 20% to 40% on Tue Wed and Thur this week. It's been dry here for looong time. It could be a total coincidence but I'm hoping some of you may have had a similar experience.

This is interesting, could the water act as resonance calling for more of it self?

Yes that could be part of it Josh. I also programmed the water and the CB to bring in the rain ala radionics machine? Tony had touched on this idea in some other ways with the Plasterite. It was also spoken of in another forum within the past couple of days so thought it might be worth mentioning.

G'day all..I'm committed to make two CB's before next wet.. Have only made two full size CB's, one an induction model'

Basically followed WM tutorial but added a few more quartz. The induction one , just wrapped base pipes with few tight wraps of silver packing tape... not sure on its effectiveness or range.

I know that the standard CB, based in town , stopped two cyclones . The strange thing was that both times the cyclone downgraded to low pressure system and both times centered and spun over Darwin for several days. , stationary, getting bigger and dumping heaps of rain., before rain dance the continent....several times...major flooding inland river systems.

This was profound. This year ..10 years of artificial drought brokenever since Raindance continues, even in capitals .

I'm so glad I made that first one...was a challenge ,,the top and bottom spacers I found a pain in the a.....rest, pouring etc fun !

So . Any tips on construction. additives , amounts ..techniques. updates ? ? Pros cons ?
On a mission but not that experienced in these devices.
Grateful in advance....Yo

Re: CBs and Rain

Postby josh on Wed Jul 28, 2010 9:13 am

Stephen I have made probably 35 CBs and found many short cuts, first : to find the exact size crystals to fit in the bottom of the pipes is always a pain, I wound up with much larger than practical, sometime they are twice as big as necessary, so I put the point of the crystal in the pipe and simply tape the tail end to the pipe, it does not matter how big it is, it still work, for the spacer, when I was making so many for Dennie, I was making the bottom spacer with thick cardboard, it work very nicely the top one I made with 1/2" plywood, At this time I think Dennie sell a very high quality spacer he has them made by someone, but your pipe may not be the same size as here. In the middle of the CB (Cloud Booster ;))I always put a large sea shell with the point up, since it look like the energy of the shell comes out the small end, also you do not need to have the bottom pipe as long, 10" is enough Hope this help a little
Oh let us not forget, some of the first CBs were made not with pipe but with Re bars (reinforcement steel bars) AND WORKED VERY NICELY, so in a pinch where you have no copper pipe you can use re bars, aluminum pipe or bars, plumbers pipe.

Re: CBs and Rain

Postby Spirit Walker on Fri Jul 30, 2010 11:28 am

Yes!!!! I have found that putting water in my CB pipes DID manifest rain, and usually pretty quick, like either the same day or the very next!

Since I just can't for the life of me do ANYTHING the "normal" way, I've taken to being creative in that regard as well.... So, the water going in the pipes is usually structured and charged water that has been imprinted, ala Dr. Emoto, with LOVE on the glass container I would "treat" it in prior to filling up the pipes. I have read and know of people that put crystals in the bottom of the pipes, some will wrap the crystals in a coil as well.

I believe it all "works" to a greater degree or less. I have also added drops of Rescue Remedy to that water in the pipes....

OK, so I have also tossed in other essential oils too!

I think the current setup has 7 foot copper pipes in mine. I am going to cut those pipes down to a "resonant" length, something I can share more of if anyone is interested in doing so, it makes a big difference in what the metal in the pipe does regarding "energy" and waveforms...

Kind of like fine tuning the antenna....

Thank you very much Josh 😊.

I went and looked at the link you posted for shells- They have exactly what I want. Perfect. Now to the drawing board...

Have a great day everybody 😊.

Hello Linda

There are on the market some products that will make your Plasterite water resistant, but only for a little while, eventually the moisture is going to get in and screw things up, in order to gift the Plasterite in nature or in water this is what I do. I have a small vacuum machine to preserve food such as beans, flour etc, so I take a piece of Plasterite and put it in the vacuum, and when I am finished I put in another bag and vacuum that as well, so it is in two vacuumed bags, totally water proof!

My lady has been painting various things on the devices and I am quite certain it will keep the pieces nice as long as they are in the house, you can paint them with Shellac that will protect them, but not 100% for outside.

I do not know of anyone coating the plaster with Orgonite, that would be a good idea if you keep your metal as an oxide size particles, and your crystals crushed very fine, so to be able to paint with it.

As far as mixing plaster with Orgonite, we are all doing it because plaster is Selenate, and we all put Selenate in the Orgonite 😊

For your sea shells here is the place I am getting them: <http://www.abellhorizons.com/products.asp?category=4>

Good luck
josh

When you go to the site, go down the page a little until you see the Nassau Periwinkle, they are just right for the devices and your wallet as well 🍷 ($9 for a gallon)

Plaster Orgonite Questions...

by Lightning on Wed Jul 28, 2010 4:21 pm

Has anyone found a paint or coating which renders Plasterite impervious to outdoor elements?

Has anyone coated Plasterite with Orgonite??

Has anyone mixed Plaster into their Orgonite?

I need a source for seashells (small for embedment) and seashore sand. Can anyone point me in the right direction?

Thanks 😊.

Namaste,

Linda 😊

Hi Monsoon and Linda ☺,

I looked around some and found these 2 links:

http://www.dinodiver.com/html/sea_shells.html

<http://circumsolatio.us.blogspot.com/200...ation.html>

If these folks are correct, Clockwise coiling does occur sometimes, but the norm is for the shell to coil Counterclockwise (IOW looking down at the shell, the spiral can be found within Nature, but are rare. Apparently the direction of a shell's spiral seems to have nothing to do with either Northern or Southern Hemisphere.

FYI in the second link, the pic of a reversed-coiling conch shell in the upper left of the page is not real, it's Photoshopped.

I wonder what factor it is that does make the difference...

Blessings to everybody,

Linda

PS: One more link- This one explains the uses and significance in Indian Theology of the clockwise-spiralling shell (And many other interesting natural phenomena)

Shells here in Darwin spin in ccw direction from the base up to the point, That's looking from the point down to base

Wish I'd payed attention to the ones you sent me Josh. I believe your shells mostly spiral cw up to point in the N.hemisphere.?

So, for S.hemisphere a cw coil from bottom to top should push energy out, where as in n.hemisphere, you'd need a ccw coil from base to top to push energy out ?

What about winding a broadcaster ? Do you think direction of the coil wrap significant ?
Curious ? Like to improve on techniques that work.

Dowsing Resources & Techniques --->> Dowsing Charts

pendulum dowsing charts can be used to simplify many tasks - they can be used to determine the depth of the water source, the water quality, rate of flow, etc. They can also be used to measure almost any physical state (temperature, pressure, weight, speed, etc.) The following are just a few examples:

Infra Red Orange Green Indigo Ultra violet

Black Red Yellow Blue Violet White

The chart above shows a linear version of a biometer used to determine the "colour" of radiation (and the energy gathering field and should be 30mm diameter (resonant with the (-) green frequency).

The chart to the left is a circular version of the colour detector. The two lines inside act as resonators (the North) - the same way as resonators used in the Universal Pendulums.

Lie Detector

When we tell the truth - just one hemisphere is working - we get oscillation from the front to the back.

This can be used from a distance using a simplified picture of the brain.

So there I was brainstorming, and suddenly...

☺ If one were to make a traffic cone Plasterite, we could "leave the piece in the mold", bolt the cone to any waterproof base, then RTV to seal the base/cone joint, and then we have a waterproof Plasterite Traffic cone. ☺☺☺☺

Of course it would work! Don't y'all think it would?

Further thoughts, anyone?

Linda my dear, I tried it, I left a large piece inside of small plastic trash can that had a nice shape, it held about one and a half bag of plaster (35 lb) plastic can and sure enough it came out but it was very moldy inside, the plaster had turn a greenish ugly color, it got better after I bleached it, but

Here is something I posted somewhere on our forum but dont recall where:

As you know, or will find out soon, as your plaster dries it generate a huge energy field for couple of days, and as it dry a little it seems to tame it

Make a plaster cone

Leave it outside

It will generate high energy for couple days

As it rain on it, or you by watering it every few days, it will again generate high energy

Let it dry a few days and do it again

It would be like breathing for the Plasterite

I have had a couple pieces outside in the weather for a few month now and they still look fine and not crumbling

But if the plaster falls apart after a year.....well.....we just make another one

As an energy sensitive it would be nice for you to make this experiment and see if the Plasterite is generating strongly every time it get wet

Very interesting...so cone charges up again when wetted down and dries again...that's weird...appears that the drying process generates the large orgone field...mmm.

Mate, the wet season up here is wet ! Regularly get 25mm in a downpour and when monsoon hits, can be weeks without seeing the sun. Still want to see if painting a layer of resin will work. The Radionics Device works so well, I'm thinking of making a giant outdoor model...much bigger..running out of room in my shed/home.

So next time I pour, I'll paint a layer or two of resin over one of these broadcasters and leave it out over the wet season to trial...

Thank you for Starting These Forums, Josh

Postby Lightning on Mon Jul 26, 2010 1:39 pm

Hi Josh and All,

I would like to say 'hi' to everybody here on these great forums and thank you for being here, and for posting so that I and others can learn. I thought I should introduce myself and not just lurk forever.

I've never made Orgonite nor Plasterite yet, but am accumulating the materials for both, and it won't be long now

. Orgonitewise, I've got about a quart of Clear-Lite although I have now realized that epoxy is what I want to work with. I only have about 8oz of clear epoxy, so I'll be starting small with the Orgonite.

Plasteritewise, I have just acquired 25 lbs of Plaster of Paris from Home Depot for about $15.98 USD. Just couldn't bring myself to spend $7. for a measly 4 lbs

I'm looking so forward to this, and am working out the concept of my first pieces. I work pretty slow, though, until I get going so it might be a little while before I have any pics to post...

Right now, I'm leaning more toward personal jewelry and gifting my garden beds (veggies), with a smaller powered cone-shaped unit (About 1 qt, I think) for the home place grid initially. If that goes well, I'll probably wind up with Monoliths in the back yard, and then branch out from there 8-).

Speaking of Monoliths, I am thinking of the Stonehenge-type structures, etc around the world. I have a strong sense that those structures fit into an energy field which is being fortified by the structures being described here. Wouldn't it be a kick if activating the Earth's ancient positive energy structures provided the flip for Mankind's Consciousness Switch?

I also have/am receiving the concept of a "mated pair" set of Orgonite and Plasterite. I think that would be a very good thing. In my perception these are tools to bring together the different levels of an old existing grid of very positive energy, Maybe the Grid is the Grail.

Namaste,

Lightning

Linda, welcome to Orgonite plus, already you are bringing some very bright concepts that are certainly worth to be given deep thoughts.

"activating the Earth's ancient positive energy structures" now that is something to ponder deeply upon, as if the ancients knew of future problems, and would have provided a way for healing.....I love this

Thank you

Hi Linda

I agree with your thought of the ancient energy lines waking up ... I feel the same ...

I've also seen a time when crystal would be our source of energy ... didn't see it as being via orgonite until I came across orgonite!

I haven't started making any yet, but am gathering materials and bugging Stephen with some questions ..

I think I've become addicted ...

have a beautiful day, everyone!

Addicted...you bet...you wont believe the "rush" when you start making and gifting

....wow...empowerment...hooweeeeeee.

Blessings allround..... it just gets better and better.

Thankyou for starting this forum , Josh,.....gratitude. Yo

Time and again , I've read that 6 decent Tb's , buried in a hexagon pattern , about a foot apart will open even the most stubborn vortex.

A lady at school reported of constant lightning strikes near and on her house in our wet season. (I taught her boys and daughter.) It's full on up here in the Darwin wet. ! some even went through window, despite a household Hhg and Tb in the boys' room. I gave her 6 larger Tb's and a cardboard template....Done...no more lightning strikes...She's amazed !

Ancient structures and vortexes.....could it be that simple ?

Thank you Stephen: with the hexagon re establishing balance, have you tried it on a very large map?, not really in vivo but it should work

Bluegum from OrganizeAustralia.webs.com recently completed a huge mapped hexagon with large devices. Titled Flower of Brisbane completed....worth a look...inspiring.. He sent me a copy of the Treasure Map...IT IS A TREASURE !

Especially for the population of Brisbane !

Re: THE IRISH TOPIC

Good start to the weekend, receiving at last the heavy box with 3 gorgeous Sakura cones from Sunflower. They are really top work, beautifully decorated, so artistic, and feel so gorgeous to the touch, well I always enjoy stroking the smooth surfaces and giving them a cuddle against my face, but these are extra smooth, like a cool carress.

Such a pity they have to be handed on to others, well two of them have, one is going to an Irish home and one to a woman in Minnesota, I'm sure both of them will be thrilled.

So, what will happen to No. 3, no idea for the moment, the right destination will doubtless fall into place synchronistically. Thanks so much Sunflower for them, it must have been hard to part.

Re: THE IRISH TOPIC

Actually yes, it was hard to part, no kidding.

Only got four or so left of these models.

But we all are into sacrifices and fighting for lost causes and the rest of it or maybe it is not like that, who really knows, besides it is a personal journey and that s the essence of it Surely as long as some like us are around the fat lady wont sing so we have to keep that in mind.

Well as you were a bit , or more than a bit, harassed by the little hillbilly Stalin look a like on the hill where the towers were, frankly I think what took him so long, as the lot of you stampeeding onto that mountain

..well..honestly ...I just missed the firework and lampoons....and Gregorian chanting to go with it , holy moses

maybe future gifting could be done with a slightly lower profile ? Just testing the waters here your honour...

yes we all loved it , you really rubbed it in profoundly to make a point.

Point made.

*Take a bit more care next time as we dont have too much like you around, we are all endangered species
now*

and I dont want shrapnel flying around your ears soon.

So untidy.

*We have a lot of those hillbilly Stalin types around these days
that s just the way it is*

*the snitches and the types the bring an apple to the teacher
you know the types*

The Duncan carbon fascist types who call the authorities if you use a wood stove in winter you are not sustainable

*therefor thou must pay the elite talking about a good con game here
well they do know their con games sad part is most of the sheep go along with it , even believing it faith is a hard thing to hold on to these days*

*flogging us into their utopias, well not theirs of course, their masters utopias.
They are just the well paid foot soldiers to push the agenda*

*You were so happily trampling on that hill satellites must have picked you up pronto.
and in Houston they sigh oh god those Irish again, do they never give up ?*

*Have done some inspection of those towers and other places as well and they are all very well protected and guarded in many ways. If you put it in a hundred meter radius it is good enough you don't have to throw it through the windows of one of those little buildings they have next to it, really.
fun though but....*

*fifty yards that is usually the average distance , closer I usually cannot get but it works at least make sure they don't catch you red handed , let's put it that way for " littering" as they will call it even though it is natural material , don't think that will hold you know them, they always twist a law here and there to have their way with us as it's their system in the first place so you can't fight them on their terms
like in court or where ever you know that they reinterpret the law until they have their way*

I think we all have some authority issues ...

*thank goodness you had some cowboys with ya to protect you as you meet all sorts of strange folk on gifting trips
but next time, please , no more bullhorns and mega shows*

must say was the most cool and sexy gifting I've ever witnessed.

*Have to get some bags today weather is cooled down ,was about time after a tropical week.
Have a visitor here, the doctor again, she is still snoring away*

*it is...half past oneso she slept for thirteen hours straight you often see that this energy stuff and people and jadija, could write books about it long stories
nobody will understand but a few so I have to kick her out of her bed and visit the city*

*Also out of paint
or maybe can use different colors on the new batch instead the colors used before black pink*

will maybe try the molds you send the smaller ones

Re: THE IRISH TOPIC

Back from the shop, lots of model plaster, thirty kilo, some special molds, some glass, dome shaped.

Also new paints

Turned off the broadcasters.

Tested your cones

they do very well

Also found huge heart shapes in a discount shop, for baking and such, one is a solid heart shaped mold from Italy and found a more technical one with a sort of release spring mechanism.

Ten kilo selenite already history

Heart shaped chocolate cake....

DSC06832.JPG (465.63 KiB) Viewed 21 times

250 ml butter, melt in pan, let cool off add 4 mixed eggs, not just the egg white, I use the whole egg than add 250 ml of sugar and 250 ml of self rising flour add three table spoons of pure cacao, and two hands of mixed nuts and rasins...
mix it all in the pan with a whisk , put it in a shape , place in the oven on 180 degrees C.
for 45 minutes exactly.

Still two bags left....

hmmmm the sky is very blue and it is already warm even at 9 am so it will be a hot day maybe can do a big one with the marble plaster might work but it needs a lot of warmth to go smoothly for such tremendous quantities to harden out well or else the top comes off we will see

A little thumbs up to the gifter

we dont have too many of those so we have to give them a hug whenever we encounter them.

Yesterday I went and did some gifting up around Blessington in Wicklow. Not only does the Liffey have its source there. There are reservoirs, many many rivulets (which feed into the river Liffey) , lakes, holy wells and stone circles in the area. Here are some of my pics below.

Though I don't know how ancient those circles are. I just gifted for good measure.

All I can say is WOW and another WOW, 40 plus views in about 2 hours, astonishing, as is your work Sunflower. Seems that is proof your decision to keep the site open is a good one, hope all you silent travellers are enjoying all this lol. But why all so shy, so silent, we would just LURVE to hear comments from some of you did not use too much for the traffic cone, recycled a medium cone so I only needed about five liters.

Fabulous decoration as always, such a flair with the hearts, both the painted and shell/crystal styles.

Too warm to do anything too intense, so thought, why not, let s make a new prototype of a much smaller version of the previous model.

Six untill now, plus a huge one, the traffic cone.

Sakuras ? Yep, but maybe I will change the colors, instead of the previous I can try purple or blue for the flowers.

The new Sakura models

Violet more than pink

More abstract

they sure pump

big time

big time

no broadcasters running

and the sky is mine

there you go

nothing to see here folks, just move on...

Funny details she asked for the heart

just like that

I had not even told her

Can you see how this works out ?

No ?

Go back to junior school..

Mindreading synchronicity ?
give it a name baby

just give it a name...

yep

the colors are also different as you can see more violet

ah well maybe she ll ask for a cone model tomorrow who knows would not surprise me

same expensive mix with rock crystals, rose quartz, sand, himalaya salt, yes I keep mentioning that before folk put in " kitchen salt" very nasty stuff tried it , it is not good years ago
repeat , not good.

using fast hardening plaster, the marble type ten minutes and you can pop it out of the mold
in good shape, still cooking due to the reaction, thermodynamic , very hot too, almost too hot to handle

Jenny have to tell you this; Coincidence or Must admit I am in awe , Since you sent me the plasterite pieces (4)- 5-6 weeks ago (British Columbia- Canada), I have placed them on my window sills-- didn't even get them outside. I live in an apt building and concerned about theft or damage .Honestly I have not seen a single chem trail in this time. Seriously not one !!!!! Literally you could look up into the sky before and it would be interlaced with trails eventually becoming a dull white haze totally blocking the sun.. THIS is incredible Much gratitude ❤️

Ciaran Chiarráin Smithfield and I had a great time 'on the Bridge' this afternoon. GCMAC Handed out lots of leaflets, got blankly ignored by many, politely refused by many, smiling 'no thanks' from many, but also lots of leaflets handed out and some interesting chats. It was lovely to have one woman passing saying 'thank you for what you're doing'. And good talking to people who know what we are 'on about' but with no idea but curious. It was great chatting to these young people who are informed and aware, NOT drinking tap water (which is a big help in keeping the planet healthy). Didn't get their names, hope they see and tag themselves.

A follow up comment on these beautiful sylph pictures by Brian Mahesh Farrell: ' Trevor James Constable coined the term 'sky critters' in the book "the cosmic pulse of time" to describe invisible creatures that could be seen using certain photographic techniques. They are pretty ugly things, nothing at all like the beautiful spiritual elements seen in these pix!' I agree Brian.

Spent AGES today wrapping up one of EK's beautiful Sakura cones which is now heading to Minnesota to the lovely Linda, lucky winner of one of the cones. I added in a couple of other little pieces because it was the same price up to 2 kilos. I hope she'll be happy with her prize. Always seizing my chance, I included the instruction sheet and suggested she might try her hand, saying making Plasterite is actually easier than making a cake - would you agree Sunflower?

Re: THE IRISH TOPIC

MG would say " cheering "

he always says that ...

well OK Cheering

Two big ones made in the weekend

Improved the painting technique with at the end using white dots and mixing it in with other colors, for the blossom used three colors pink , purple and red. So you end up with a fuller more realistic look In this case sort of this took me two hours almost compared to the first run, while back, they were cut though, but more like junior class this is more like it you could go further and first create a background to give it more depth, like a lake with a mountain, mount Fuji springs to mind... with snow on top, and put that sakura in the foreground.

so you should take some time and dont rush , look back at what you are doing once in a while and get the proportions right of the branches etc that is important the rest you can correct later, if need be.

also try to watch for the light, you can play with that make the light come from left above and adjust shades , lighter on the left and darker on the right so it look even more realistic

when you look at it form usually a meter distance

nobody pushes their nose upon the tool of Light, except we.

Re: THE IRISH TOPIC

As I happily won't post on that silly facebook, we keep it here, inhouse, indoors, nice and cosy. Had not turned on the broadcasters for a week so yesterday I thought well....let's rock... oh had a lot of visitors, the only guys you can truly count on in contrast to the "truth movement" which is by this stage so brainwashed, corrupt and ridiculous, nah..won't even do a rant about that. Waste of time and energy. Feeling good , feeling great. Sun is shining, sky is blue , fluffy clouds, just like geo-engineering doesn't exist...oh and the kerosine smell, lots of it.

Tried something new today, did look into some YT videos on painting flowers etc Also can make another sakura, this time on a big LF energy heart Made a few small prototypes, new shapes. As it was such a nice warm day, thought might be a good idea to repaint the attic window panes, as the paint literally falls off. But I am not such a DIY type myself, so postponed that chore a while , five years or so, but enough is enough so...one hour it took the scrap the old paint off, which was easy to do with a metal sort of triangular tool. Than put a thick new layer, two layers over it and it is as good as new. Feel very confident now. The " Ikea" feeling when you put something together that looks like furniture.

So....started with a new approach to the big one, by doing something I've never done before. It came out not too bad at all.

I don't have the right sort of brushes for that sort of flower painting, one needs flat brushes of a good quality. you have to mix one end in color A and the other end of the flat brush in color B and than gently move in a harmonic way than you can make things like leaves, stems, flowers, etc in a rather easy way after a bit of practice and a bit of natural talent. If you don't have talent, well you have to practice a bit harder but you will get there anyway also.

Hope the light stays for a while , still have to make the big heart thing.
Lots of lilies came out.
Garden is teeming with life.

Re: THE IRISH TOPIC

These photos are not as exciting as yours, Sunflower, but I'm happy to comment that getting some really fresh bags of Fine Casting Plaster worked really well, in comparison to the oldish bags I was using, which were really difficult to get the consistency right, either turning out spongy or setting hard in about 20 seconds after adding the sand. This amount doesn't look very much, but is more than it seems.

Then yesterday I was glad to have some 'supplies' in the car when my friend and I passed a big tower I'd never noticed before. It was possible to drive up right beside it, and get our pieces directly underneath it. Can you spot the bottle in mid air?

Really kind offer of a specially decorated chocolate cake, there's a big sense of voodoo in that idea, we would have to keep our thoughts very pure while biting their heads off, otherwise they might be dropping like flies

Jenny Mortell

Had fun with quite a big pour yesterday, using a new bag of 'Fine O Plaster' and some regular Skimcote. I was happy that the new plaster well instead of becoming either very spongy or else setting like a rock in seconds. The Skimcote is great for gifting. Got to gift a tower not too far from here on Sunday. Most of what I made is for gifting, but I find it fun to part with the cones, I really love them 😊

Re: THE IRISH TOPIC

Another great post, one of many, thought about doing another long rant but what for ?

Besides, we had some good confirmation out of Ireland today as one of my sakura models landed on Patricia's porch...by sheer coincidence....

and she is happy with it and that's all good enough

just back from a pleasant trip to Monaghan to have a great chat with Patricia O'Connell and her lovely but camera-shy daughter Aoife, and to give Patricia the lovely Sakura cone, I think she likes it. Lovely to visit 'Angel Whispers' again and to get invited to do another Plasterite workshop in a month or so

Took great care in creating and "programming" the beast of love, so, you can expect some more feedback soon, Patricia.

Yeah, it's a strong one, dazzling, hard to give them away, truly, they really felt good

full of rose quartz

big load of crystal powders, so much more each piece has multiple rock crystals too, thumb sized.

if you want dreams keep it close to the sleeping quarters

There will be changes for the good

Also got myself yesterday some painting equipment, brushes, paints, very cheap ...yep Aldi sort of promotion, so I rushed over and bought twice as much as needed, just because it was cheap and it can never hurt, always handy, even made my first real painting, on canvas that is.

Re: THE IRISH TOPIC

I think it's worth repeating a couple of conversations I've had with a friend of mine, Carmel Conway, a healer and medium from Galway, who gave me permission to write the 'story' A few weeks ago we were Skyping and I showed her one of my cones, she could see the energy coming from it straight away. She said she felt this particular cone was the perfect shape of all the shapes I make. She also suggested, which some of us already do, that putting tealights into pieces would be very calming for restless babies. I offered to send her some Plasterite which I did, a couple of medium sized cones.

Then 2 days ago we were in touch again. I was a bit nervous to ask how she was getting on, but the following is pretty much the dialogue we had, edited a bit:

Hello Carmel, lovely to hear from you.. Hope all good with you?

Carmel: hi ya yes indeed all well here thank you.

I then asked Carmel what were her impressions of the cones.

C: They're so cool, I have a weird experience with the green one you sent me.

J: Oh ? Good i hope?

JC: Well you tell me, you're the expert on them. I have it on my kitchen window, when any one picks it up it's cold to the touch, I pick it up and it's really hot and I get sort of visions.

J: Wow, usually they feel really cold. You're making me nervous in case they are unsettling for you. You know you can ask them to do what you want?

C: No no it's all good, was just strange the first few times- no I didn't know that.

J: I've asked them for 'unconditional love, greatest good of all, Divine Light' then things related to the environment, end to chemtrails, blue skies, that's pretty much it. This is happening to you because you are so very sensitive.

C: OK well I'm getting used to it, it's just with the green one, though the white and green one, no.

J: As long as it feels good I'm relieved. They are supposed to bring a good atmosphere into a house but yours is surely perfect already.

Hmmm... perplexed there. You can always suggest it stops whatever is happening. Or maybe you can put it to some good use, I don't know.

C: Got that, I am to use it in my healing work.

J: Ohh so good, when I hear that I get major shivers down my back.

C: lol well you are a healer too.

J: Yes I'm focussing on that, doing my 'practice' every day. I really hope you see results with it, and very glad to chat to you and get an update. If you have any other interesting experiences with Plasterite I'd love to hear about it. Because it's only in the beginning stages in Ireland, just over a year now, still quite experimental.

Today:10:07AM

Hi Carmel, I've been thinking about what you experienced with one of the cones. I'd love to write a little report on this. It might just seem a little thing to you, but because as I said it's still very early stages, anything relevant is important.

C: no problem at all. The second one has now started as well but as it's in my healing room is channelling the energies of spirits as in when they come in to the room they go straight to the cone and are easier for me to connect to magical little cones you make.

J: Oh wow, more shivers. a bizarre thing is, anyone can do them, most important thing putting intention when stirring (or at a later stage for a new 'owner' to do.)

C: Yes but your intention as a healer also goes in to them too and will sort of activate the energies in their new owners, that's down to you not the universal energies - true anyone can make them but it's the maker's energies and soul that make them powerful and effective.

Re: THE IRISH TOPIC

Take it calm lady J, you have done enough , don't " overdo" it , like I use to do...

Keep your powder dry....

Before we all run out of steam...

It is obvious that this whole thing here takes a lot of time, that's just the way it is.

Building a house with three bricks a day but the walls are solid and the foundation holds so it's going uphill one way or another.

Good story, there are more of those , but usually they are not published.

All normal practice to some of us.

Must say lady Patricia is wilder than I thought

She is real fun , a real teaser too, lots of craic there

Very witty

Somehow we got caught up in a little sylph duel as she was showing off her new selenite puppy, it already has some serious teeth

the little lapdog turns pit bull ...I should have made them milder , really , they are maybe a bit too strong.

I was really pleased with the outcome of the creation proces, using my best materials and the whole protocol, not rushing it, really getting it right and experience the whole creative run there.

Personally I would have preferred to keep them as they are my best pieces, the Sakura line, like the French wine farmer keeps the grapes of certain wine yards to himself to make really top wine for himself

not for sales

always keep a golden nugget close

So now my puppies are being shipped off all over the globe

We go international now, soon we can eat with spoon and fork...

Soon we must wear ties and power dresses

exchange the oldsmobile for a jaguarkeep dreaming sunflower...

Its been awhile since i made any plasterite, but these were made out of necessity...monday i gave away all the pieces i had, then i couldnt walk for two days...my knees gave out on me...then no sooner had these pieces cured, i was able to function again! No doubt in my mind that Plasterite protects us from frequencies that make us sick!

Still damp from last weekend.....

The pyramid has a clear quartz, rose quartz and amethyst chunk in it.
The cone, a clear quartz point, some small tumbled chips (rose quartz, lapis, blue kyanite, possibly black tourmaline, smoky quartz, hematite and a few others, memory not 100%) and selenite pieces.

Plasterite and Intention

Plasterite is Gypsum, essentially Selenite. So working with plasterite is essentially working with a crystal. From my background in crystals, crystals can be programmed. This is what working with selenite for this cause is, essentially programming it, or putting your intention into it. Now, to program a crystal, you have to program it in accordance with what it does best. In this case, selenite is "bringing in the light" (I've been made aware it can be universally programmed). To extend this, we can think of clear quartz almost as being "universally programmable" ("it can do almost anything"), rose quartz – love, citrine – abundance, and so forth. Let's not go too far here, or too complicated.

Now selenite is programmable by your purest intent. If we look to holy scriptures, the purest intent is that of your heart. Now if you work with heart with selenite, with your intent, while making plasterite, imagine what you can do with that intent Now to do this, you must work with yourself, and clear yourself a bit to work with this, which is why you shouldn't work with this if you are not in the right mood.... Essentially, at the end of it, of placing your intent, hand it back (surrender it) into "God's" hands (Now at this point, think of "God" as you will term it – Divine Creator, Prime Creator, Source Energy, the Universe, be it whatever will) and this will "subtle" the intent, not making it soft (less effective) but ensure it is good intent, and allow the effect to take hold and spread, slowly but surely. It takes time to adjust, to return to normal. And don't doubt your intent. Once you have put it there, know that it will work. No matter what.

Wow,,,, found one of my very first Plasterite pieces , poured in an all time favourite mould, a glass from a punchbowl set Would have to be about 6 years old and still tingles in the hand ..
and spins about 45 thousand Bovis
The coating is a couple of layers of shellac Definitely worth a trial for EMF protection.... with a reference on research and history and how to :

Re: THE IRISH TOPIC

[i]Wasn't really planning for it but ..long time no see...so did some gifting, was a nice warm day not to say bloody hot

just a large bag, on bike that is, no more cars for the time being, too annoying , always run into some sort of silly trouble when I use the car

you know those striped cars popping up too close for comfort, all coincidence, like five times in a row, shit happens

So , on bike, also good for your workout, lost some pounds there

but...after four miles, yep, flat tire

oh my..stubborn as I am..I just went home on the bike, not walking with the bike, put a repair piece of rubber on the inner tube, pumped it up

yep ok, next bag, off I go

second run went well

different route

very green and as far away from folk as I could possibly get , which in this case is never really far at all as it is very populated in this area

saw a nice spot , had to cross a bridge, went with the bike down a staircase sort of thing, perfect gifting place, dense wooded area, small but ok

just as I want to get the bag of the bicycle , I see something big and white passing along the road a few yards nearby

first I thought it was some sort of boat as there are many boats there going by , but than I spotted the big red helmet and had about two seconds before he would be in front of me , so I just took the bike and walked towards him , pretending I was just coming of the bridge and had to push the bike a few yards through the grass towards the bicycle path, by the way WTF was that Axxxhole doing there on his motorcycle anyway ?

That is against the law , right?

Ah but not for him, for you it is , funny is it not ?

As you are inferior , you see that s what the system keeps telling ya

inferior

know thy place

you jump when we tell you to jump or else

anyway, he was a bit startled for some reason and just moved on

no I did not take a picture

he has rear mirrors you know

might not like that too much

he might feel intimidated if I nag him

but if he nags you that s ok, we are just cattle anyway , right?

So , for some people the law obviously does not apply

What are the odds of him showing up there

I tell ya

no really

It is very uncommon for a motorcycle cop to use bicycle paths they only do that if there is something going on a nice catch or something
but anyway , you tell me, just observing here you piece this thing like the other things together for yourself
As there are not too many of us, the ...call it what you want..., it is easy for the system to keep a close eye on us
as we are just a few
How many gifters do you know , close by I mean, not too many if at all unless you live in the Dublin area there is not much to look for A few, here and there so it is not hard for the control grid to " look after us" easy
and fun too
for them
and sometimes for us too
if we outsmart them until now I have outsmart them actually I just got lucky long time ago
as I just finished my gifting tour so I had " nothing on me" so I knew that when the blue and red lights in the dark suddenly started singing
no noise, just the light
made quite an impression on this little young snapper here as before that I was an altar boy ...

never had any contact with the protect and serve types , yeah
and than I ran into a brick wall so to speak
how do I know that was a setup ?
A false flag you might say because they kept repeating , couple of times , what I was doing there BEFORE they arrived
what an odd question to ask not what are you doing here, but what were you doing before we arrived?
so they knew
no question about that and they put the thumbscrews on me because they only got one change to get it right to break my spirit you might say to make me crack up, if you know what I mean make me fearful
etc etc
but....that little bird did not fly that day
I just played dumb

still had to show all paperwork of the car and so forth and do an alcohol test, without any reason just for the fun of it, maybe we can catch this prick on that well you cant , thank goodness I did not touch anything that gives craic
so lucky again
insurance, driving license, bla bla bla walking around the car, what s that in the trunk , looking through the window
oh just a bag of plaster, officer and before he opened his pie hole, I showed him the receipt all official
when the failed harassment tour was over , Sunflower survived and shined so instead of them having me by the balls I had them by the balls and to rub that experience really in , with love
I remember saying

I am so glad you are here officer, to keep an eye on the neighborhood
so everything stays safe in the community than I give my best expression of my bambi look you know, those big eyes
like I am in love with that prick
He did take notes in a little notebook dont know why did not ask
I know my place..

than his colleague, who was in the police van, turned to us and said what did he say?
He said it is good to have police keeping an eye on things

Than he suddenly started nagging about burglary
in the factory nearby where I unfortunately parked
There has been theft here recently he said
I thought to myself , what the fuck do you care ?

But I noticed the place was empty, all was moved a few weeks earlier
the company moved to another place nearby
so there was nothing to " grab " anyway
we even walked towards the closest large shelter and peeked through the window yep, empty
what were you doing here anyway ?
well I was just practicing my driving , as soon I have an exam you see so I have to train driving during darkness as well and as there is a large parking area here it is good to practice things like turns , parking , driving backwards, etc normally I would not drive at night to these places but ...you know haven't really caught me yet, not red handed yet

I have had two close arrest now Off the record of course, as they could not pull it through so they had to let me go

as they cant get you for what you do , not really but they can get you for something else like " littering" that was the whole point of this soviet style interrogation
this intimidation hoopla
to make you crackup
and you know
so they could give you a nice fat fine for littering or something not for what s really going on if they know, dont think they do compartmentalized

or whatever they can smear you with anything goes even though I was standing still at that time
actually I was just trying to leave the area and wanted to drive backwards when that police mini bus came down on me with lights like a shark and blocked me
yep
no mistake there and than we had this KGB crap
but it all turned out well
I made a mistake staying in the area too long , that was my fault wont happen again
for about twenty minutes
dont know how they found out maybe one of the people who lived there saw something " suspicious" and , as we do live in a snitch sustainable society,
immediately on the blower
oh look my neighbor is burning some leaves in his garden, we found ourselves a CO2 terrorist not kidding ya
will come crap like that

anyway , they screwed up , big time and t hey don't like that and will get it right, one day because now I know what they are up to how real it gets
I just was naive, yes I can be naive too, rarely but...shocking eh ?
I was a bit younger than nah
thought ah well, they don't care, just silly me , making some energy fields, doing a bit of healing, for the benefit of all thought ah what do they care
but they do that mean all of us by the way
so , if you think about gifting and such double check, make it quick and neat don't hang around the area too long and , if possible, don't use a car makes it a bit harder for them you see to sneak up on you watch you etc
they just don't like the energy fields and you know why in an age we are in now where no one gives a fuck about anything , the few that do , that's us, stand out rather clearly and we have the red flag on a bull effect

the second encounter was milder
but still annoying enough in the middle of nowhere there I am with the car
than this police van shows up comes towards me in the middle of nowhere
just like that
and again you say to yourself WTF is the chance this happens ???
but all went well

passing me , giving me a strange look like they always do like you have got something to hide might have been a bit inconvenient if they d seen the thirty bottles or so
hmmm

what are you going to do with that , Sir ?

Well...I am gonna stick it up yourfill out for to your own imagination
my goodness it did not reach that level

I thought wow that s a ...coincidence

wait a while , drive off, to another small town, few miles away, park the car

want to get out and they show up again

park ten yards away and just sit there than drive off again and do their surveillance round

yeah right

I was not really expecting that , I deliberately use a bicycle to do gifting trips also further away , up to twenty miles

that is not that far , two hours and than two hours back so even my smart tricks were not good enough , actually this was more or less a test bed to see what would happen

if they are still , you know, keeping an eye on yours truly and oh damn they are like a hawk watches the mouse in the grass

I dont talk to many folk nowadays but a few gifters I talked to , in many countries and they all or most of them had similar experiences

I am not kidding you usually at night

and watch out for female cops they are the worst

this happens in many countries

maybe they don't do that harassment with the Irish because the Irish don't give a shit anyway, total dissidents there you see beyond " help" , can't be reprogrammed

To ease the conversation, if you just gift moderate amounts here and there, not too often etc make not too huge energy fields etc they probably leave you alone and you better not turn on broadcasters LOL gives off a massive LF energy blast wont go by unnoticed

you can literally feel it buzz through the area ,the broadcaster amazing stuff
not for the fainthearted...

the good part is you can always turn it off asap , if need be if you get too many helicopters and such mumbo jumbo if that annoys you just unplug it and done

I always say if you plan on making a broadcaster do some gifting first in the area
five miles or so away make little fields there first
so you cause some confusion, diffusion obscure it all more, that is important if you plan on making this stuff , fine, but make sure you gift your first dorky pieces as your first pieces will be ugly
asap
I mean ASAP
the same day if can be
be good now

so they cannot figure out where the broadcaster is even though we don't use metal as such , it is hard to detect location wise
the effect is not yes the electricity grid is copper wire but the energy blast through that , piggy backs on it , modifies it , so it is not easy to locate the source that s good

they just have a hard time locating that darn thing that s all

just saw a helicopter go into the gifting area
a route not normally used by them so there you go
a new field
bingo
odd material this selenite is it not deep stuff
powerful and ultra cheap
a few crystals are in it , but mainly crystal powder , if at all or just crystal water, sand, salt, that s it amazing stuff
and it turns you into the driver of the whole thing puts you in the seat
and they have to follow you see
yep
oh they dont like that things happen , sky turns blue and they have no control over it , no they dont like that I rarely mention the protection against the radiation, this electro smog
some folk get very deep into that , I dont
it does work though tested it and that s all I need to know it works
big time

Beach Sand substitute for Quartz ?

by monsoon gecko on Thu Nov 11, 2010 6:57 am

After chat with Josh and success with plasterite, here's some orgonite trials to share.

Beach sand feels more like it creeps up on you when held....then really gets a tingle up...

Pendulum... both sand and quartz models set clockwise spin , easily beyond the circumference of the piece being tested.....mmmm.....looking promising !!

Yo.....anyone , please give, offer Bovis reading !appreciated regardless result... I'm still learning !

First photo shows 6 copper top sand model Tb's...no crystals at all..... the rest , standard Tb;s with quartz point and chunk of tourmaline added.

Image

Next is close up , then next very close up.....Tb's got a heaped teaspoon of beach sand each.

I'm getting about 75,000 on the copper TBs, 44,000 on the standard ones, 160,000 Bovis on the HHG. Nice looking pieces Monsoon.

Oh how cool.

I'm glad you made those Monsoon, they're great! And thank you for the readings too, Steve 😊.

☺ Ya know, Monsoon, it would be interesting to have countertops made of that in the kitchen (Sorry I couldn't help it 🍷), you could probably turn out some great faux granite food while you make it, what do you think? 🍷

Ref the sand, I have been collecting beach sand from specific beaches for use in Organite and Plasterite.

Part of my intention is to use the sand as a structural link to the specific beach from which it came. I think this would be useful for instance, in the Gulf oil spill areas. Lots of si

Firstly...thanks for the heads up on sand substitute for quartz, Josh....and what a surprise !

Steve....you beauty...the Bovis readings are great confirmation.. I'm particularly surprised at the difference in the Tb readings...combo of sand and copper top very interesting.

Perhaps the copper top more conductive than the steel ? or is it the sand more active than quartz ? I think I'll make some more trials with identical swarf.. the only difference being the sand and quartz.

Great info on treehugger link...I imagined going beyond benchtops...how about wall panels incorporating metal swarf and beachsand...mmm

Lightning, trouble with benchtops is resin scratches easy and I wouldn't want to cut food up on it, but surely a product is available for tough finish.....great idea on collecting different sands for specific areas...sure earth spirits would like working with local materials...ha ha

Mini Benchtop ? ha ha.....nah...just another photo opportunity ...!

G'day all.....here's the next lot of teacup Hhg's.

The ones in front with little brass beads in the top have heaped teaspoon of beachsand...no quartz..

The row behind...copper top too, have only quartz point...no sand.

The rows behind, all black tops have both beachsand and quartz.

All have been double dipped giving that glass finish...

Please, please, Steve, can you give Bovis reading for each group ? Very curious.

I believe I will add beach sand to all pieces along with quartz while I have plenty.

Thankyou Stephen

Nice one Steve...thankyou.

So appears a combination of beachsand and quartz is the way to go although beachsand certainly very energetic by itself.

Great to know...mmm.....learning curve still going up.....Ha ha Enjoy.

Just to make a point we are not against anything, ok ?

Have to repeat that statement , otherwise as people are so black and white sometimes they do hold it against us, so

Whatever works for you is fine

We prefer the stronger, way stronger method that won t break the bank has also a more healing inclination so to speak

Sure, the older methods, like the resin etc do have an energy - effect too but it is very different and has a lot of drawbacks

that s just the way it is

The main argument we have is against the controlling elite on those platforms, those forums , etc not just in the past but as those muppets keep pushing the lie, also in the present.

The selenite method has been around now for about six years at least , at least in mainstream , and the record still holds

so ...there you go...it holds, keeps working

It is not easy , if possible at all, to make any money out of it

maybe that s a good thing , maybe not , who knows personally I think that is a good thing as when money comes in , things usually change nature

so , in a way, the plasterite method cannot be modified, it is real , pure, honest and strong

it is what it is also it can never be held against us , that s also a reason why energiekegel.de quit sales

as otherwise it will come after you

one way or another

as we did it for free

so he thought that is the best way to go forward

the path of truth is usually not the easiest path

besides, in these challenging times I think we have better things to do than keeping busy with sales and that takes up too much time and energy

it s that story of giving someone a fish or teach them how to fish and we dont have a big crew behind us or other sources to keep a sales network going

it s just aint there

but my main reason for staying away from sales it that it will be held against us one way or another

if you sell a piece of plastic metal junk for 500 dollar with some copper pipes and bla bla it s just fine baby

the moment you sell a selenite piece with some quartz , crystals, jadija for say 30 bucks all hell breaks lose oh my god oh my god , how dare they , those " snake oil sales mob"

how dare they even though that darn thing is at least 40 times stronger

actually I dont know if it is 40 times

but Josh mentioned it once

well anyway, it is way stronger that s a fact but it could be just 37 times...

because that is one of the main angles of attack on those corrupted forums, the money after they ridicule it and so forth the money , that bigggggggg money those twenty bucks or so comes under fire
as they cannot find anything else
so they have to come up with something anyone can makes these things for peanuts and that s good enough for me

Question/s ...

Postby sacred on Fri Sep 24, 2010 11:13 pm

I've made my first couple of batches of orgonite ... yay! been busy fixing rough spots, sanding, etc, and will post a pic as soon as I can borrow a camera ...

a friend has a good supply of fossils that he doesn't know what to do with 8-) ... mainly shell fossils, but sea creatures as well was wondering if they'd be OK in orgonite (I'm using resin, not plasterite) ...

and shells in resin? any problems with that? I've made some orgonite and put it into a shell (already gifted), and it had a lovely feel ...

am also wondering if there's a quicker way to get the shine back after doing some sanding in patches (& edges), other than sanding up to a high grit ...

and I know I've had tons of other questions, but they come and go

oh, another one being re metal shavings ... have been given a bucket of shavings that are a bit dusty and have bits of dirt from the factory floor in with them ... I've tried to wash it, but separating one from the other is just not happening easily :(

maybe a better question would be whether I can easily get clean shavings, so I don't have to go through the cleaning process at all!

OK Sacred, here is few words for your questions,

In the first days of Orgonite, probably 2000 or 2001, Don Croft (the Orgonite guru) said to get any shavings that you can, dirty or not will not make a difference, he was saying to remove the old cigarette butts from the shaving, but you really did not have to do that if you did not want to, so worry not about the dirt, it may even add something to the mix. You will make good looking Orgonite if you decide to have a business and sell it, otherwise you do not need to have it all prettied up

If you need to make your Orgonite look good, first, it does not need to be a good looking piece to gift in nature, actually the worst it look the better, only if you will have that piece shown in your home or giving it to someone.

*So if your Orgonite is rough looking, do as Stephen said "double dip"!!!, make a small batch of resin with nothing in it, and put your piece in it and remove it, or brush it on, it should give you a fine finish
As far as shells, put as many as you can in the Orgonite, it creates a good spin
Good luck my dear (check your PM)*

Postby sacred on Sun Sep 26, 2010 4:50 pm

thanks, Josh ...

I'm making some 'pretties' for some women customers and friends that are attracted to the pretty crystals, etc when I get to the bottom of the tin of resin, I'll make the work-horses then, as it's a bit cloudier down the bottom of the tin

thanks for the info re the dirt in the metal I had thought it couldn't really hurt, being an 'organic' substance itself haven't found any cigarette butts (yet) ;)

my first 2 batches were a bit patchy, and needed to be redipped a steep learning curve about resin setting times, and needing to get the resin through the metal shavings so now I've got a whole pile of sanding to do to get the overspill off I quite like sanding things, though! haven't got any fingerprints at the moment, but they'll grow back!

with the orgonite I've got from Stephen in the past, those that have been gifted his pieces have made requests for similar ones from me nothing like a bit of pressure for a newbie, eh?

I am enjoying myself, though!

I'm being creative and helping people ... a great combination!

Linda, if you like a little more time to work, use the epoxy instead of the polyester resin, depending on the kind of epoxy you can have one to 4 hours to work with the mixture, also there is no smell, the polyester resin is rather toxic and better done outside, you can do the epoxy inside: no smell. the epoxies come in different mix, you can have one where you mix half and half, some are one to four ratio, many to choose from, I like the half and half, unless it is very warm weather, it will give me couple hours to change the pattern of the crystals if need be..... but the big deal for me is NO SMELL ;)

Re: Question/s ...

Postby sacred on Mon Sep 27, 2010 7:12 pm

Josh, I will ask around for the epoxy you mentioned as I feel that the snippets of seizure activity I've been dealing with of late are partially due to the fumes of the resin I don't have a place outside to work, so have been working in the laundry, with as much ventilation as possible .. and I don't yet have a proper mask for fumes, so have been using a disposable dust mask, which really only takes the edge off the intensity of the smell of the resin, but doesn't really filter it ..

as you can see, I didn't want to wait any longer to start making orgonite!

I will make some phone calls to the suppliers of the fiberglass resin and see if they can steer me in a direction where I can find the slow drying epoxy ...

thanks!

Re: Question/s ...

Linda my dear please do not over look the Plasterite, it has a larger range than the Orgonite, much higher vibrations, cost extremely little and is so simple to make, all it take is plaster and beach sand (beach sand is highly charged), it would save you many dollars, no smell, no stickeeezzzz, no metals, only crystal if you want to broadcast a particular character, otherwise plaster and sand is all you need .

Now if you want to get real fancy, you can do as Sandandsun is doing, and put everything in the plaster that is in your kitchen, I understand she was trying to put hubby in the plaster but he ran away too quickly

At this time I only make Orgonite if I need to make the small pieces that goes on the back of the cell phone, I still have 10 gallons of epoxy and I not sure when I am going to use them, I know I have to make coasters for my lady, but that will be it for me and the Orgonite, I feel that we have found a stronger medium to work with

Well then here you go, stay away from the polyester, you can always give it to someone you do not like,.....send it to the illuminaties :twisted: :twisted:

The dust mask you using is doing very little good, it is made for particulates not gaseous fumes, the fumes go clear through it :o

Re: Question/s ...

Postby sacred on Mon Sep 27, 2010 9:12 pm

the plasterite has a beautiful feel to it ... very gentle, nurturing ...

is there a way to make it more durable so it is less likely to chip around the edges?

Stephen sent me a piece of plasterite that you just want to stroke, like a pet! after reading that he'd added Nag Champa oil to a plasterite mix, I thought :!: and rubbed my hand over the piece I have with some amber paste I had left on my hand it still smells divine!

I had thought of plasteriting instead of organiting, but I wanted to make some pretty pieces where the crystals could be seen

I can't paint like Lady Catherine ... and haven't thought of a way to decorate it, and also protect it yet ;) maybe if I rounded the 'corner' edges, like the base, it would be less likely to chip ... :?: if it was coated with anything, would that change its broadcasting range?

I didn't realise that plasterite didn't require metal shavings, and wasn't 100% sure about whether it still needed quartz ... so thanks for that clarification!

I knew I had lots of questions!

Josh and Linda,

Thanks for having this conversation on the forum.

I have had many of the same questions Linda, including thinking for awhile that I needed a certain percentage of metal in the Plasterite (Now I know that I don't), and the question of crystal or no crystal, also.

Thanks again, please keep talking ;),

A bit more :P The pieces that you have seen from Catherine are quite lovely but for the pieces that are going to the school they are not like that, for example I make for her lots of little hearts , basically the size of a TB, small stars, small pyramids, many other things that she will paint with only one or two colors. One some of them she will glue a crystal on the top, but here is the big thing; it feel stronger after it has being painted

One of the larger cone she used a sponge to put the color on it it is very good looking

To have to smaller pieces it is so easy to do, you can use the same muffin pans you use for cooking, the same as the TBs, and you wash them and keep on cooking with them, the plaster is not grievous like the resin :cry: .

I am going to post some pictures of those pieces we have been giving to schools and other folks, you will see the simplicity and the size as well with the different colors, so hold on Catherine will help me with this most technical endeavor

Try one piece just with sand and plaster, there is such a purity about it and if you think this natural energy method is " hard to sell" try a life pillow

I do use the life pillow sometimes, when in pain, when you hurt your knee against something or have a headache, whatever, any sort of pain will be taken care off that is how it is , it should be used in a sort of way as someone described I think the best way or a good way would be if you could integrate it into your kitchen workspace where the food is prepared, etc, so all gets that bliss right away, you don t have to think about it

it is done automatically

that would be handsome

just thinking out loud

as we are a little selfish here

we only use the life pillow when in a sort of pain

and not for other purposes like food or drinks, anything that touches the body, even smokes , alcohol, or in a worst case, fast food

yikes, also medications, you name it in other words we dont grab all the benefits as it takes too much trouble to do so it s natural, no nastiness, no chemicals, we got enough of those already and it s a very uncommon device in healing land

it does improve healing of the body tested it on myself and it is always an eyeopener amazing

ten seconds, twenty at most and you feel the change voila
what can I say ?

recently I had sour milk in the coffee, could not drink that stuff wave it over a life pillow and whoops taste has changed, yep like " magic "
it is not magic
just a sort of energy we hardly understand let alone hear about again , can be made easily , for cheap put it in a leather sort of big wallet or pouch that s it best to test it for and on yourself
Stephen does sell them
even though they come in short supply
I dont think anyone makes them not for sales I mean would not be a bad idea , if you are satisfied with the results, and want a fancy piece to buy one of his just to keep a provable working technique alive
before more is flushed down the memory hole
as things disappear at an alarming rate or get banned

Re: THE IRISH TOPIC

Quick up-to-date on the Irish front. Just lost a long paragraph, dammit

So start again - Love your post about your gifting trip yesterday Sunflower, sorry about the punctures in the heat though, bumner, I'd say there were a few words spoken that would be unintelligible to us English speakers

. We seem to have a drop out from our team going gifting to somewhere as yet undecided tomorrow, ideally a reservoir, the idea of getting positive LFE into peoples' drinking water is attractive, and we'll 'intend' that Plasterite counteracts the bad effects of the fluoride, clever eh? Just as glad there will only be three of us, because I was a bit worried for the car springs with three bigg(ish) men and a load of heavy Plasterite in the boot.

I had a fun time a couple of days ago, painting up quite a few cones, a simple but effective technique, first spray with some 'Metal Paint' i.e. for spraying railings. Then a light wash of different colours of metallic acrylic paint.

The same night I acquired over 50 x 500 ml bottles, going around collecting them after a game of Bridge, I was being SO helpful. Used them all up this afternoon, this time with a mixture of 2 plasters, fast and slow hardening, 6 litres of slow plus 2 litres of quick, into about 6 litres of crystal infused water plus a few extras, Dioscoria Batatas for helping to clear electrosmog, Agnihotra Ash, very experimental for em..... will have to get back about that, and a touch of exotic Grapefruit essential oil.

And the good news is - nearly a first, being approached by someone who said she wanted to order some cones prior to starting to pour herself. Very happy to send off a 2 kilo pack to Co. Kerry and hope we get a new pourer there, as otherwise non-existent in that area. So, decided to make another first that Sunflower may report on

Yo lady Jenny, did you use your silly Iphone to make those pics ? Just say yes.

I hate these cell phones but that s because I am a bit conscious...can come in handy those things.

They call them handies too in German, dont know if they use that word in English.

Everybody just love to fry themselves with microwaves nowadays, but, not to worry as you are covered with the good stuff so ..just saying...

Nice work , excellent.

Normal folk would not be able to sleep with so much stuff buzzing around but you dont seem to have a problem with that.

Strange.

Non existent is a big word.

We dont know.

Could be , could not be, so many silent horses now , only a few horses left on the racing track.

But it s guesswork

Think there are, but we will never really know, will we ?

Yes I also ordered , in those days, a energy cone from mr T from Germany, actually he lives in the Harz area.

The rocky mountains of Germany, wild life area, very remote and not too much popcorn folk with iphones hanging around...wink...

yeah as it just kept me in cognitive dissonance, the whole energy thing, in those days

even though I had all the cards

still could not really get my head around it so thought ah well , let s contact him and see what happens and hurrah hurrah he responded, that in itself is a little miracle as most of such type never respond

so he was not one of those types, that was the first shocker

he is real

yikes

so we chatted , long story , got me one of his energy cones , and yep, worked

right away

like an oven in winter

that s the effect

after a week out of fuel...

and the skies cleared up and the rest of it better mood, better sleep all that

and much more

In t hose days nobody was doing it so I had nothing to rely upon except the guys and gals on the forum

but that was a bit outside my scope in the early phase that "healing talk" was not really for me although orgonite plus never went overboard with that and what was published was real just real
But now, looking back, I say people who even look into this, genuinely, should not doubt themselves so much as we may have done as it was a road untraveled back then, or hardly traveled all experimental, re-search had been done before, in many forms, but, as usual, Josh improved and advanced all the dorky first steps and made something marvelous out of it, following inner guide, the inner voice and who knows what else
after many loops and turns it manifested in beach sand with plaster of paris, salt is already in that, so and the energy of such a model is very high, almost pure light very powerful
not even rock crystals are needed
but I sometimes use those for other reasons gemstones too, a few but it is not a must be
it's a choice
so if folk don't have crystals or cannot or feel reluctant to buy them or whatever the reason may be just do without we love the crystal water but again, for whatever reason, you can leave it out and go cold turkey on this baby

Even though I assume or expect in a way most folk who even take an interest in this probably have such items at their disposal rock crystals
cheap
Point being, don't underestimate yourself, that's the main topic here everybody who wants can do it, even with the cheapest of materials giving the purest results
we like to tune it up a bit here and there, customize the beast, but all that is just for the fun of it and sometimes to change or influence the outcome, the working of the field, giving it a goal, a purpose, etc.
for reasons of making sure I add always a hand of natural salt, like Celtic salt, any natural salt will do just not kitchen salt that won't do

to make sure it has a reasonable amount of salt as it is from the beach so maybe the rain washed much of it out you see could be, things like that.

20 % of beach sand, the rest plaster of Paris and , maybe, a hand of natural salt, that's it.

Very high reach or as some say " frequency" oh fancy words...

if you put crystals in that changes dramatically, but you get a longer reach and deliverance of intent but you lose to some quality of the purity of the tool of Light. You cant have it all you see, not in one go.
Understandably.

In short, folk should not doubt so much and just go for it you cannot miss

especially not with the easy method

wont cost much and if you cant find or obtain beach sand easily just use good mixed sand

the sort that is used for concrete mixing with little white marbles or pebbles and quartz pieces in it , etc , many tiny minerals that shine in the sand, and add one hand of Himalaya Salt or any other natural salt you can get in the healing shop around the corner.

anything natural will do and you are on your way.

For anyone logging on to this page, you might be surprised to see quite a discussion that took place last night. It arose from wondering about the use of the word 'Orgonite' in our naming of what is now known as Plasterite. I suggested it was time we got rid of the Orgonite tag, out of date, we've moved on since then, don't need 'Orgonite' to attract peoples' attention, at least I hope not. So then the discussion moved onto the virtues or otherwise of 'Plasterite' as a name. I never really liked it, too clunky and heavy, though descriptive of its physical properties, but not of its energy properties.

There was a little head-scratching group of us tossing suggestions around, some amusing, some serious, hope you'll read the discussion but in no particular order of preference but as they came up: Shamanite, Moonite, Lunaite, Aetherite, Aetherine, Lifeornie (??? :-)) Moonshine (:-)) Lunarine, Selenine. Lots of possibilities for creativity, improvement. ('Moonie' names as I mentioned the connection of Selenite to the Moon :-))

The reason I'm not so keen on the name Plasterite, I was somewhere recently trying to promote it, there was an announcement to a large group of cool young people, something like 'starting in 5 minutes, a fascinating demonstration of Plasterite Making by Jenny Mortell' What would you expect the reaction to be? You've guessed it :-)

So, really looking forward to participation and suggestions/comments from all of you. And of course nothing is being decided in a hurry.

Energie Kegel we have to toss out this " orgonite" asap as that s just a marketing phrase by this C Weltz

Re: piezoelectric effect and orgonite

by josh on Tue Jun 01, 2010 9:10 pm

The gentleman who coined the name Orgonite is Karl Hans Weltz, back in 1991 he found out about metal and resin, I think he has some kind of legal thing about anyone using that name, but now that the whole world uses it, the cat is out of the bag

He has a very large website selling his things for very high dollars, and from what we know about his Orgonite products, all he uses is resin and metal no crystals and he claims great results. He knows very well the capacitor affect of the device. (in 2005 I did not know of this person nor his inventions, all I knew was Orgonite, and when I gave, on one of the Orgonite boards I was in at the time, the explanation of how the Orgonite work it simply was after some reflections, it seems to me quite logical)

The addition of crystals in Orgonite is giving more focus and an endless way to modulate the energy of the device, but to say that it is the piezoelectric affect that is responsible for the working of the Orgonite is simply ridiculous, there may be piezoelectric happening because of the pressure of the hardening resin, but it is not why it work.

There are different ways to make Orgonite with many different material.

With resin, metal and crystals

With sugar metal and crystals

With hardened tree resin

With Amber

With Plaster

With bees wax

I can report from the resin Orgonite, from the plaster Orgonite and the bees wax Orgonite

The resin has more of an electrical feel to it

The bees wax have a smoother feel to it

The plaster generate a much higher frequency

I will do the sugar soon, and as soon as I can get my hand on enough Amber I shall try that as well

Of all the plaster pieces that I have made 8month to a year ago, none of them have taken any DOR, they are all strong and healthy, plus we have confirmation of the plaster pieces we have given to a few friends : they are clear with no one on board but high vibes and beauty.....some paradigms have to change

OK Nepi what else

josh

Energie Kegel well if you can come up with a good name or anyone else of you , we can consider that Energie Kegel does not have to be done in five minutes, you can still continue your angry birds game....

Jenny Mortell Too late at night now, we should have a meditation or group think-in, see if the Universe can come up with something, though maybe Josh up above might not like it trying to be changed

Energie Kegel No he does not care about such trivial issues, besides in those days there was only the old methods and he tried something new

we will see , let s sleep over it and see what intuition shares with us

Jenny Mortell As you say, no rush, but if there was to be a name change could use it on the recently revived Orgoniteplus page

Jenny Mortell See how it goes there

Energie Kegel maybe it s time you should be starting making bigger life pillows as soon you cant keep up with production

hehehe

Jenny Mortell I take your point there, only thing is, if they're very big they are a bit awkward for bringing around with one, especially for a man

Jenny Mortell I've given away lots of them, lol

Tony Geron LMAO!!!!!! drum roll please SHAMANITE!

YEE HA!!!!!!!!!!

Stephen Geddes The resin life pillows certainly stronger and longer lasting than the leather pouch models , though loose that comfort aspect of the mouldable pillows.....hacaught me mid postnow ... Shamanite would have folks wondering for sure.....ha

Energie Kegel yes the comfort aspect is important too indeed.
So we all need two life pillows , one for the body and one for the kitchen so to speak. That would be it.

Tony Geron That's what I was thinking right after I typed it.... what the feckle is Shamanite! LOL

Jenny Mortell Good start though not resonating strongly with me sorry Tony Geron

Tony Geron No worries!!!! LOL Moonite?!?

Lunaite?! Aetherite!

Jenny Mortell I'm trying to think of something to do with the moon

Jenny Mortell I'll chance 'Selenine' into the ring

Jenny Mortell Hope some other people join in tomorrow, rather late this part of the world, and not something we can really rush into, hope for more suggestions especially coming from the aether :-) Great discussion guys, I'll say goodnight.

Tony Geron Nite Jenny.... Selenine Dreams to you...

I

Energie Kegel Think Shamanite is appropriate too yes, although some others would fit the bill too

Sean P Maguire Just letting you know that I did a "little ceremony" with 4 pieces of plasterite and my own few "inclusions" at a local courthouse..... The result? The judge made mistakes, we stepped forward and took over the court peacefully.....The court was closed. Everyone due to be foreclosed by the banks.....weren't! They will all have at least 6 months to work on their own cases

Jenny Mortell Sean P Maguire WoW shivers, thanks so much for letting us know that, brilliant thinking and result.

Jenny Mortell Sean P Maguire It would be good to get this report a bit more attention, I'll get it to the top of the page in a while

Sean P Maguire nah....let's just get on doing stuff moving on to the next

Re: THE IRISH TOPIC

My fellow gifter Alistair and I finished up quite late after a fairly successful run yesterday evening, getting to a couple of reservoirs in South Dublin and Wicklow.

We spent too much time trying to locate some communication masts we could see on a hill but couldn't find our way up it, disappointing. But we got a lot of Selenite into one reservoir 'Blessington Lake', you can see Alistair's fine throwing technique

Then we spotted a sign for Roundwood where we knew there is a huge reservoir.

Sense would have made us find our way to the Motorway and a good road but no, let's go over the mountain road.

It was a long time since I drove over the Sally Gap(Bearnas na Diallaithe - Saddle Gap) still stunningly beautiful in its wildness, high up, narrow winding road across the Wicklow Mountains, starting to get dusk but still could see lakes far below.

We stopped and giffed a peaty mountain stream and A threw lots of bottles out of the window, aiming for the many streams we passed. By the time we arrived in Roundwood it was dark. I let A make his way to the water. Photo quality not too good. Quite late home. More research needed for where we're going next time.

Re: THE IRISH TOPIC

a wannabe facebook post but never really made it...maybe for the better

On the bright side of things we are independent and that's a big bonus, without that we would not even be here in the first place.

People are funny it the Germany lad has not sold them to start with no one would have even looked in it, you see that's how most folk are, if it is for free it can't be good.

Later on as the selenite way balanced itself out and gained stability world wide he stopped sales and that's daring thing to do

most won't understand

personally I would love to stay away as far as possible from the crap of sales and all that, not interested.

On the other hand most folk, not all, need or like that sort of thing as they doubt themselves, there are however more reasons, maybe also supporting us, that could be reason, even though we really have not seen too much of that...

autsch that was on the ball

as now we force people in a way to do it themselves that is good enough but maybe would be nice if there was an option you see

because the stuff we make are good enough

like the japanese flower blossom pieces they are powerful

you mean like a 4000 euro chembuster, no way more powerful really are as it is free and that is a bonus, again, we don't have to force people with dorky adds and annoying hocus pocus

this donation thing is very distant on the site

I mean, hardly anyone notices it, obviously or just to thick to pay

could be that too because if every visitor gave one dollar ..oooooh

at least we don't have to bend over to motivate folk to pay up at least not yet....

and most folk who even go there, well we are in this orwellian hoopla now, by design so most folk, admit it, are being grinded down slowly into this agenda 21 sustainable crap finances, fees, taxes, all goes up, energy, food, bla bla bla

the agenda, so most folk don't have much spendable income left anymore and it will get worse

essentials only according to the elite

no more spending money

so prepare to sell all your bentleys and jaguars soon folks

as you all had it way too good if we can believe our owners.

most folk don't have cash and folk that are interested in this energy work, healing, give it a name baby, just give it a name, don't have much money for sure, we all know that.

the servants of the system get paid well and we all know that too

that's why they radiate towards those positions of "power" and to be honest, I don't like to force folk at all especially not our sort of folk those with some sort of brain function and a sense of reality left a spark of humanity

or what's left of it think we should be grateful we even have folk looking into the unauthorized method, the powerful method.

don't overlook that part of it as that part really matters for me just having 100.000 views in about a year on a forum that can hardly be found through nsa google does mean something you see and that's what it's all about it means a lot of folk are more open to deal with the new method for whatever reason

as this plastic hoopla hocus pocus is going down now fast mainly due to the behavior of some big wigs, we don't like to call names here, but we sometimes do ...
I wonder if folk even read what's posted on those forums
WM and all that, oh please like Jesuits creeping up on us waving their kirlian fakery as an excuse to burn us asap still...even to this day...
do I smell an agenda
hmmm guess so

but we are still here aren't we yep we are bigger and better as ever before as in Jacques days the unallowed method was mainly used by healers and some more experienced organite folk who wanted to go a level higher.
Now it sort of slowly breaks out of that confinement as it attracts more folk who are just open minded and are waking up although very few really wake up, but that's another story.

very few make it

less than fingers on my hands on FB

most are gobbled up asap by FB propaganda pigeonholes
political correctness
it is so sad but that's how it is anyway, I think there is a sense of wisdom there to make folk keep their pennies as that s all they have left and soon there wont be pennies at all and we all know that every time we check out for groceries and go WTF did I buy diamonds , no just carrots...

we all suffer enough
in the staged age of " austerity" aka poverty working our asses off for the system basically for no gain maybe a whip if we are not PC and fines...
times are rough for those who are not sucked into some NWO agenda as most of you are. Big time, thank god not all the aerial spraying , this aerosol program has been on the go for way over a decade , will they stop, no they wont , psychopaths never stop they want total domination and they mean business time to get that through your head if you havent already you dont have to be a genius to figure that all out you know where this is going

they cant stop now even if they wanted they are gonna pull this through regardless of anything for as far as we know they have been working on this thing this new world
their world
they have invested a lot to get this far and to be on top they have suffered a lot too you know our owners, mainly in the past now they finally have their goal in sight for the first time
do you think they will stop for anything try again

but at least the ruling elite they are honest about it , they dont play games and watch ballgames , no, they must tell you what they do with us and they do, blatantly in their dusty boring books. They tell you.
So it is not a mystery.

Even though their way of notifying us is psychopathic
as they wont take a no for an answer but that s a different story.... they use the masses to bring in the global system and they hate humanity for being the way we are , so easily fooled and used for a hidden purpose. They hate most of us with a vengeance.
Like Kissinger said about soldiers , american soldiers, stupid animals he said , always nice to have some backup if you going off to die in some make belief war, all for the greater good meanwhile bringing in the agenda, rooting out the countries in the middle east who wont bow down properly to the satanic masters, refusing central banks and all that, they dont give a shit about anything except themselves, their class.

So dont play their game as unfortunately most folk do unknowingly.

See that every day on this dreadful shitbook.

A big pile of fancy " feel good " shit

that s all it is now dont tell me you did not know that...

they really do their homework on us properly and make sure most of us cannot even think properly anymore providing us with these fake leaders , spokepersons, PR nwo people, you know them very well.those experts , those NGO creeps, those IPCC goons..we are drowning in them , as far as I can see, in the alt media circus as it is degraded into a circus totally there are not much honest folk left, maybe some small ones on the side, maybe but even that is doubtful or should be taken some a grain of salt to make sure , very sure that solutions, truth will never reach you or even when they do by that time most will be so confused and brainwashed and politically correct , it wont even matter if they receive some good stuff as they cant process it properly anyhow.

And the Irish crew , they wont give up , for some reason, maybe they just cant, maybe it s in the genes or something , I dont know

strange

it s that drive to safe people , that need or hope to find the one with light in the ocean of darkness, that can shine for the world

but whatever it is , it keeps them going in an age where most around us are long beyond braindead way beyond that

Re: THE IRISH TOPIC

*Often wondered why you , why we..you know....this whole thing, quite amazing mind you astonishing
just a few individuals and wow mama , look at us now...*

*you once asked if Jacques was annoyed by the lack of response or the attacks in the past, well, you know
by now that applies to all of us and the answer is not straightforward, in a way we are but in a way we are also aware we can grow out of that, the ridicule, the attacks, the propaganda, agendas basically trying to get rid of things that benefit us.
Never thought it would take off as for grassroots that s something all new altogether
We are not promoted or such , we have nothing to lean on beside the few good folk
we dont have even money for god s sake
we have nothing*

*we just have things that do help people and there s fun in that besides all the worrying and so forth
the annoyance, there is still more light than darkness in it so we keep doing it.
so , selenite queen, dont be too hard on yourself
we know some give up and some do not understand we have some that do and the number is growing they cant stop it all they know the intelligent ones , they cant get those but they do get the masses as we saw in that famous climate change con game in Dublin a while ago half of Dublin was begging for the new world order , this austerity, sustainability agenda to be unrolled, and that s not just there totally brainwashed herds now totally not partially
the little " issue " when Terry addressed that Duncan prick and got the harrassment , and we see so many of those types it is amazing
in the open now, nothing hidden anymore, and five minutes later he and his flock are back onto the board of some NGO planning to dumb the masses down even further
as we are the plague of the earth
so they keep saying and threatening us*

*those WWF , greenpeace activist....bla bla bla.... nonsense so silly
all useful idiots*

anyway , browsed through some photos here, as over time they seem to add up whole lot of them now

*as nobody will do it, we have to do it ourselves, that s ok heroes are in short demand nowadays, probably filling out some petition to save the polar bear puppies or something dunno, or voting....for the next psychopath to do his or her good work..or maybe searching for a vegan salat...bla bla bla..
improved the colors on some older pictures as they were a bit pale blueish or something, now they are more like it.
and I left the bikini ones out this time....LOL
even though they were public...
but you know...
would be maybe too much of a good thing....
heart rates and all that we have to be careful there* anyway without you somehow this whole thing would never have left the docks.

*I am not so good with interviews, but we have , in the past trained one or two of them, just to see how that goes , who knows maybe within a reasonable time span we can go for real on that one.
As the previous ones where just rehearsals wont be as cool and blasting as shaman Tony and Sean but...who knows...*

Was not really planning on this as it was a marvellous day here , totally cool , but the Irish mob had to do good work, so I am forced to post that here....

Thank you 😊

And now, as the whole nwo controlled opposition movements show their true colors and fall apart or get reborn like the Phoenix from the flames, etc, only true individuals count, haven't seen anything come out of any truth movement or guided agenda, so for Jenny and mob , great thanks and hugs to you all. See Sean posted something too.

That's megacool of him, he is megacool, one of the better alt media radio hosts left, as that's also going out of the window , fast now, very fast. Listening to alt media nowadays is almost like listening to pure NWO propaganda, big time. But better not speak out about it , the ufo , alien new age people, the carbon worshippers with real vibers might not really appreciate too much truth. Truth is hard to handle, that s a fact.

Anyway enjoying a good australian wine here and a good book so I will keep it short
Did I hear a sound of relief there ? Better watch out buddy

Did buy some amazing stuff at a " second life" store, amazing , made some energy pieces with it very fancy
the aerosol attacks were devastating today total killer , very nasty , I mean for those not playing pokemon that is or watching ball games or soaps must have been way , way over hundred chem bombardments here crazy shit but these are crazy times
one way or another
but the selenite holds here, had the broadcaster running , more and more often I have to do that on t hese
terrible days of massive attacks
so the iron fist is out of the velvet glove for those who still quite have figured it out yet so sylph parties all day long and it s all under control here

Off soon for another Awareness Raising session on O'Connell Bridge today. We'll start at 1.15 and talk to people about Fluoridation and Geo-Engineering. If it had started a lot earlier it would have been so much easier to explain as the sky was completely criss-crossed with huge trails, now become whiteout :- (I'll bring some of my little Plasterite/Selenite pieces to surprise anybody who stops to talk to me - pleasantly surprise I hope.

We're hoping for quite a few more people than last month when there were only two of us, Ciaran Smithfield and myself.

There's a slightly more adventurous plan for today, not sure where we'll end up but one way or another it will be great meeting concerned, passionate people who give up their Saturday afternoon for what they believe in.

Re: THE IRISH TOPIC

Think the people will find their way without us Jenny from now on, they have enough to guide them on their path.

Mainly out of respect, oh jolly so old fashioned and charming , ah...please...

as I said, out of respect and so forth I take the trouble of posting all your adventures and there are many adventures that happen to my own amazement I must add...

Really...

Think the time has come to withdraw , gently, from this place and slide back out of public sight.

Or take things terribly slow from now on.

Just a few individuals doing the right thing and that s all there is to it

Maybe the time has come, to say a thank you to the members

The life force energy inner circle, those in the know

The real energy players, the real ones, veterans

oh dear do I have to apply that statement to myself too, hmmm even though I am - considerably - younger than the few good men

We dont have to call their names, we all know who they are.

We all know who they are.

Like Tony said, just Plaster of Paris, beach sand , well...eh..basically that s it as that salt is contained in the beachsand, voila, solved.

And , like the Life Pillow , another great invention or revelation really nobody gives a xxxx about , so sad, truly sad, it changes when the ingredients are adjusted.

The last thing the alt media wants is solutions.

Once you are into this , this selenite connected reality thing, hardly anyone understands, selenite is the key and the expansion of reality is the door.

It is not magic , it is real as can be.

Think Tony s stories do reveal also a part of that.

For those in the know.

Nevertheless , I made a promise to Jacques, and I kept my promise and that s good enough for me.

Not saying it is all over or whatever, just saying if folk keep following the path the control grid wants the people to follow than it wont end well.

That s all I am saying, meaning you have to come up with something new, thus we do.

We do very well , thank you very much.

It is like making a new tunnel but it is hard work with just a few folk you see.

That s as straightforward as it gets, right?

Time for a time out lady J.

Proud of you lady J

You achieved a lot

Re: THE IRISH TOPIC

I reared my cheeky head up on the Orgone Generators page yesterday (never miss an opportunity

) The mod there Jason Marlatt - a friend of mine in Canada (I sent him a Life Pillow last year) was exhorting his associates to focus on gifting and to keep things simple, that it is not always necessary to make beautiful pieces. After Ray Watkowski showed a picture of a tray of pretty gifting TB's I 'went for it' as follows:

Jenny: I may be off your Orgonite topic here but it would be good if you could also mention the very inexpensive method of maing Plasterite/Selenite, the possibility of creating huge amounts of gifting material (85-90 lbs from a 50 lb bag of Plaster), crystal water (crystals can be used over and over again), sand, Himalayan salt and strong intentions.

Justin Marlatt: Plasterite is awesome, not that great for EMF but it blows orgonite out of the water when clearing the skies from chem crap. I have experienced this first hand..... First time I ever made it was the most sylphs I have ever seen.

Jenny: May I also comment that we are getting reports from healers who are using Plasterite in their work with great results, which actually surprises them when they use it for the first time;

Re: THE IRISH TOPIC

Regarding the EMF, in my tests it works fabulously.

Tested it at several places and circumstances and it does protect really well.

On the other hand, and this applies all the grid throws at us, things are getting so out of hand now after the Paris treaty, they really push ahead fast with all sorts of stuff, cell towers popping up like cookies all over the place, the manipulation of the skies has gotten even worse than it already was, they increase things fast now.

Also must use the broadcasters more and more and every time that happens the helicopters dive on my like the big hawk on the little mouse, used to that now but still it shows how aware they are.

And you know there are so few of us doing such techniques it is easy to "pick us off" to do the bully hoopla etc.

Anyway, it's nice there is some movement noticed in Canada, British Columbia he is from if I am right. Yes healers, or very aware folk, not the Alex Jones crowd, immediately recognises the potential of the natural solution. They do. Usually you don't even have to talk too much about it at all.

Re: THE IRISH TOPIC

A quick update - on Thursday I decided to do a quick pour to make hearts and bugs as little gifts for the guests at my sister Anna's birthday party. I quite quickly got 100 made, in a nice mixture. I painted a lot of them on Friday, leaving the 'bugs' plain for people to take who I thought would enjoy giving them to their kids or grandchildren to paint. I was surprised to see that these were the most popular option. I asked one girl Annie why she was taking an unpainted one, would she paint it herself? She said 'No, I'm a plain Jane, I like plain' - she was wrong she's beautiful, pity I've no picture (yet). One of Anna's nieces Alannah liked the little doughnut shape.

Update on the Affirmation Group, there's quite a large membership now, nearly 180 members, I was commenting to Juliet about what a great group it is, so many caring, intelligent and healing people in it. The Affirmation for tonight is from Aine Mac Aodha, but it changes every week. The object is to give Plasterite/Selenite (and all other Tools of Light) a boost in their efforts against geo-engineering and other environmental dangers. New members always welcome. This takes place every Sunday at 7 pm GMT. I painted a cone specially for tonight's occasion.

And lastly, a bit of fun, I'm getting feedback that Plasterite/Selenite is happy with this, I hope so

So you have been over busy , as usual, unstoppable

oh...made a little video...yesterday...

I always hide my vids from youtube

and there s that annoying view count thing that is bollocks as they love to play with us all the time.

totally fake statistics, just like the politicians, smoke and mirrors.

See you had a lot of craic yesterday Jenn, good for you getting the word out, step by step

Personally I , we, dont have to do this you see, we have our blue sky and the rest of it , so in a sense, our task is done.

I often wonder why we are so silly to keep on this path, as hardly anyone does anything anymore and the dumbing down is almost perfect in society.

Really perfect.

Unfortunately you just keep posting so it s out of my hands

ah...

Re: THE IRISH TOPIC

Someone came over and well , I had , have, too many pieces here so...when she left I said do you want one of the pieces, in this case the heart shaped Sakura model.
She said, well I am not sure, it looks great though...
Yes she thought she had to pay for it
So I said , it s okay , take your pick...it s for free
That is the moment when it hurt
as her fingernails almost scratched me as she tore the big red heart out of my hands....in a millisecond like my healer did while ago
even before I finished the sentence giving me the " hehe got ya" look
Of course she could have chosen a more modest model like a good eh catholic woman would do ...rolling eyes....
burps..
more mediocre shall we say but no
but no, she had to go for the best piece
the whole place here is loaded with that art work you see got no room left
As the whole shelf was loaded with those sakura cones
but she had to go for the gold , so typical Spend hours painting that thing and in a second it s no longer here
maybe that s a good thing maybe there is reason for that or maybe she was just getting greedy , happens

so you can " gift" in that way too
you dont have to throw bottles along the highwayat least not all the time...

Re: THE IRISH TOPIC

Again, x attempt , to slow down.....

Won't be posting much on FB either from now on, just saying....

here, same story, not too much.

The website is in the air , again. Will stay there.

So most tasks are completed regarding dealing with the public.

Jennifer does a great job on FB dealing with the public, I am not so talented in that realm for several reasons

you dont want to know

So the big water wheel is finally starting to turn as more folk, on facebook, come in , mainly , oddly enough, through Jenn's " Affirmation club"

There is also an "orgonite plus" group, also closed, on facebook as everyone seems to be there.

<https://www.facebook.com/groups/orgoniteplus/>

Juliet did great recently, well she always did of course, but even better , same goes for Patricia

yep

anyway, it will be calm here , so you know.

As maintaining this forum with just two , three people, etc is a bit of a burden and besides it was never really meant for that , the reason was to get the word out, that s all, turned into something more as the Irish invaded but that s just xxx luck, I mean good luck

Thought for the day , actually have been thinking of writing a book any book will do as no publisher will ever release this stuff
no way
wont happen
but there are options maybe an ebook of some sorts, also with extra authors, the big names in the community the real ones
has not been done before but maybe I am too optimistic...probably..just a thought.

hang in tight and may your god or gods go with you

Re: THE IRISH TOPIC

I hope Molly Rockett and Aileen Devlin enjoyed the Plasterite Selenite workshop today as much as I did. They worked really hard, creating lots of lovely pieces, big and small. They were both thrilled to have discovered Plasterite, as they had wanted to make resin organite, feeling they very much needed something like that, but were put off by the toxicity of resin.

They worked and concentrated really hard, using their essences and intentions to good effect. They each filled 7 or 8 bottles for water gifting, each made quite a big cone plus lots of little pieces, hearts, bugs, small cones. Aileen wants to ring her garden with pieces, and then go further afield including gifting a huge mast located quite close to her. Molly will do something the same, and also had the idea of painting some of the little shapes and leaving them here and there for people to pick up and bring home, a nice random gifting method.

They both say they will continue to pour Plasterite later; I really hope they do. We'll be looking forward to seeing their results.

Re: THE IRISH TOPIC

Anyway, it was a nice run with it, must say the objective for me is to save Jacques work and that s been done, so for me , personally, there is no real motivation or reason to continue this, all eh ...wisdom... hehe..has been shared here for the few who care and are in tune with it, for the rest, well you can always watch Eastenders , can be cute too, really...be good now.

@ Jenn, well if you have something interesting to post, just hop on it, we love you and that s good enough, absolutely.

The goal is to show folk the way , a way out, a way of healing using these tools of Light and thus it has been completed.

Really have to be , maybe, a bit more strong about this part so the penny drops on the public otherwise they might assume we still keep posting this and that and that s not the deal here.

*We know most folk are ..pfff ...you know
one way or another the ball is in "your" quarter now case closed*

Enough proof and background has been made public now.

It is more than enough.

For those who start up, dont make it too complicated

No, really, dont

just keep it simple

we can talk hours about quantities , jadjia, but dont

keep it simple

mix in about twenty five per cent sand with the plaster of Paris, add a hand of natural salt and voila

*with the water of course, dont spend too much time on measurements and all that it will work anyway
say one water to one plaster of Paris, will work might take a bit longer to harden out etc but so what and use intent and enjoy it all there is a lot more to it than one might expect....*

cheers*

Re: THE IRISH TOPIC

Hoping this is a little (or big) breakthrough, being asked to supply Plasterite Selenite for a woman (Colette) who is about to open a healing shop in a town in Northern Ireland. I'm wondering is this a 'first'? I asked her how she became interested in Selenite, I smiled when she said she had spotted one of my little sneaky comments on the Anti-Geoengineering page to the effect that 'You know there IS something you can do to protect from the negative effects of these trails' and she followed up on this. When I sent her some photos of Selenite pieces a few weeks ago she could feel the energy coming from them and was very excited. She wants people coming into her shop to feel the positive energy immediately, I've no doubt this will happen.

So, shoulder to the wheel, producing some quality pieces, we decided on lots of little hearts, bugs to be left plain for painting, medium 'domes' and larger cones. I threw in a few of the tealight holders. Colette is a lovely young woman, who does all sorts of therapies, Reiki, Shamanic healing, massage, and spray tans

We had lots of chat over lunch, then to her shop and she was so excited to open up the pieces and arrange some of them on the shelf. She seemed to fall in love with one particular piece, holding it and saying she can feel its heartbeat, very sweet - it left the shop with her for her to have a chat to she said

. Her 10 year old son Brendan is also very 'sensitive' and enthusiastic. I'd brought two lovely big purple painted cones for her shop window, which she is thrilled with, in particular the delightful one painted by Murielle, which feels like looking into the cosmos (and Brendan even mentioned this spontaneously!).

Then Brendan did lovely painting on a flower shape and gave it to me, very charming of him. Back home via a 'short-cut' which turned out to be the scenic route along the coastline at the Mourne Mountains, very beautiful, but rather slow.

Re: THE IRISH TOPIC

I wanted to share this post from my friend Cristína Ní Dubhsláine who lost her beautiful 18 year old son Fionn a year ago in a sporting accident. This is her memory from a year ago. I believe it's a song:

October 6, 2015 ·

Bí ann, bí liom - Be there, be with me

Bí gasta, bí cróga- Be quick, be brave

Bí cliste, bí cinnte- Be clever, be sure

Bí casta, bí glic - Be tricky, be sharp
Bí grámhar, gealgáireach- Be loving, light-hearted
Bí socair laistigh - Be steady inside
Bí doimhin ach bí éadrom - And be deep but be light
Gan teannas ar bith - With no tension inside
I do chorp, i do chroí - In your body, in your heart
I do cheann, ins a tslí - In your head,
Ina chuireann tú tú fhéin i láthair - In the way which you present yourself
I pé chomhluadar ina bhfuil tú - In whatever company you happen to be Bí ann liom - Be there for me Bí láidir il-dána - Be strong and be able Nuair a chasann an domhan - When the world takes a turn Bí ann dom - Be there with me
Agus buailfidimid le chéile - And we will meet together
Nuair a thagann an t-am - When the right time comes.

I met Cristina in person at the Rather Gather Festival in the Spring, it was lovely to meet her, a beautiful, strong woman - I gave her a special Selenite cone and hope she liked it.

Good photos lady J, outstanding, top quality there , we can smell the cook had a good day, it shows. Both looking sharp, top top.

Very classy stuff that s created there, also the outfit of both of you , looking splendid , could say Dior or Versace but than you d say ...nah Dublin , would be a bit of a downer

will republish them so folk dont have to swing back to imageshack and vice versa.

Re: THE IRISH TOPIC

Astonishing stuff happening on 'Media' today - sorry for the attack on you and so glad you bounce back however you can but it must be very infuriating. To answer one of your comments about it being lonely out there yes I'm starting to feel lonely without your support on FB but know it is better for you to keep your head straight by avoiding it like the plague. However..... I need to keep ploughing away there as I've always said I would, because otherwise how do we attract peoples' attention. All very well if people are working away quietly in the background if they are who knows, but staying stationary is dying, in my opinion we need to get new people at least being made aware of the possibilities of Plasterite Selenite; and then it's up to them.

Glad to say I've been offered what will be another great opportunity of letting people know about Selenite. A couple of my friends (including my sister Anna) work in a great organisation called the Dublin Food Co-op. She and Geraldine (who has also done a workshop with me) felt that the energies in the premises were very dark and miserable, so they brought in a few Selenite pieces - nothing much obviously happened so they made a bigger effort; did a blitz with lots of pieces squirrelled here and there. They felt the energy really picking up and the week after the place was buzzing with lots of new customers. They put two and two together, mentioned it to the organisers; with the result that i've been asked to do a demonstration/workshp there in a week or two, during trading hours. Will be an interesting challenge to get it right; but I know it will all be good.
